POLITICAL BATTLE RAGING.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES!)

HELENA (Mont.), Oct. 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] United States Senator W. A. Clark, who is in Helena on a campaign tour of the State, has this to say regarding the alleged sitempt of F. Augustus Heinae to bribe his son, C. W. Clark, in the sum of $2,500,000, to turn the management of the Democratic party in this State over to Heinze, with the purported object of allowing Heinze to control the judiciary that he might recieve a favorable decision in his litigation with the Amalagamated Copper Company, wherein title to mines valued at over $50,000,000 is involved.

"I had intended to take no part in the present campaign, until I learned of Heinze's ulterior motives some months ago, through my son, who informed me before the meeting of the State Central Committee in September of Heinze's brasen attempt at bribery.

title to the canal property that could be conveyed by the French company; the way would be clear for the appointment of the commission, and soon after for the preparation of the specifications upon which the work is to be done. This was upon the assumption that the agreement upon the outlines of the treaty with the canal company reached in Washington between the Secretary of State and the Colombian Minister amounted to a pledge by the latter in behalf of his own government to promptly ratify such a treaty. New it has developed that the ratification of the treaty is a long way off, owing to the fact that the Colombian Congress, before which the convention must come, has not been elected up to the present time. The delay is attributed to the existence of a state of war in Colombia, but it is now expected that the country will soon be so far pacified that a general election can be held, and that the Congress can be assembled during the winter months.

In this state of backwardness as to ratification little attention has been given here to the composition of the United States canal commission, notwithstanding the fact that owing to the dignity and desirability of the places thereon, there have been made tentative applications for appointment. The one fact relative to the commission that has developed is that Rear-Admiral Walker, who has headed the two preceding commissions, will be the president of the new commission. It was at one time suggested that Gen. Leonard Wood was to have this place, having in view his peculiar abilities are recently of the president of the new commission. It was at one time suggested that Gen. Leonard Wood was to have this place, having in view his peculiar abilitiery surroundings, and assume command of one of the important military departments. The sanitary work outlined for him therefore will be undertaken by one of the regular army surgeons who has had experience in tropical countries, and Admiral Walker will retain his connection with the important work which he initiated several year

The King's reply to the address in the Guild Hall was much on the same lines as his speech at Trafalgar Square.

In reply to her first letter, Redmond wrote to Mrs. Dickinson saying the object of the American funds was the erection of a monument to Parnell in Dublin and the purchase of Avondale Heuse and lawn, which should be available as a residence for the Parnell family. Redmond's bid was set aside in favor of one from Boylan, a Dublin butcher, who had made an arrangement with John Parnell, brother of the deceased statesman. "Thus," said Redmond. "It was impossible to buy the house and the committee proceeded with the project of erecting a Parnell statue."

Mrs. Dickinson wrote again, saying that Boylan now offered to accept the $25.006 collected for the purchase of the estate and would allow the balance to remain on a ten years' mortagage. To this letter Redmond did not reply.

Wyndham Defeats Moley. GLASGOW, Oct. 25.—In the election today of a rector of Glasgow University in succession to Lord Rosebery, Mr. Wyndham, the Irish Secretary, defeated John Morley, the Liberal leader, by 674 to 645 votes. The result, which was rather unexpected, will doubtless be claimed as another indorsement of the government's education bill, and the measures adopted toward Ireland.

STOWAWAY IN COFFIN.

Three Determined Norwegians Land at New York in Spite of Immigrathe most curious voucher of identin-cation ever filed in a pension case. The voucher consists of a tortoise shell with the name "Bob Williams" scratched on the underside. It was sent to Consul-General Evans from Christ Church, New Zealand, where the applicant for a pension is now living, and is ac-companied by letters of identification, which explain that the soldier's real name is William Wright, and that he enlisted under the name of "Wright tion Officials.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Theree stowaways, Johnson, Jensen and Hansen, have landed in New York, despite the immigrant officials, who were bent on shipping them back to Norway and Sweden. They came over on the steamer Oscar II, and Johnson broke

Sweden. They came over on the steamer Oscar II, and Johnson broke the record for ingenuity in hiding himself away by crawling into a coffin, where he remained several hours. The three men stowed away on the steamer Occar II the night before she sailed from Christians. On the second day out all wre discovered by an officer. They were halled before the captain, who set them to work in the stoke hole. There they hard startling stories of the fate that awaited stowaways when they arrived in New York.

Johnson learned that a steerage passenger had died and his body has been enclosed in a pine box to be brought to port. Johnson saw his opportunity and going down into the hold that night he torn the top off the box, took the body out and shid it under a pile of matting. Then he crawled into the coffin himself. He replaced the top so carefully that the nails fittedinto the holes from which he had wrenched them. Twenty-four hours later he was dragged out after the ship had been searched from stem to stern. He was half famished and badly frightened, but with his companions he managed to dodge about from the deportation pen at Ellis Island into the booth for admitted immigrants and reached shore.

He Learned a Great Truth.

has also been issued that even to such parts of Ireland as are not proclaimed, shipments of arms must be clearly marked, as such, under pain of stringent penalties.

With this echo of Ireland's stormiest days comes the announcement of the release of three Joyces who were undergoing life sentences at Mariborough jail for the murder of a whole family of a similar name in 1882. The three Joyces were released, owing to the clemency of the new Lord Lleutenant of Ireland, the Earl of Dudley The Earl and Countess of Dudley during their trip through Galway were approached by the wives and other relatives of the imprisoned men. The wives begged that they might have a chance to meet their husbands again after twenty years of separation. One of the women siezed Lady Dudley's hand and wept bitterly as she begged for her intercession. Lord Dudley was much affected and promised to do what he could. The pardon of the three men followed.

SAILORS' MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—The lumber schooner Cella, which was abandoned during a storm off Polnt Reyes, was towed into port today by the steam schooner Brooklyn, which also rescued the Cella's crew.

Miraculous indeed was the escape of the men of the Cella, nine of whom were capsized from an open boat and forced to swim for their lives yesterday morning while off Point Reyes, in a sea lashed to fury
by a fierce southeast gale. Every man in the Cella's crew of sixteen was saved by the boats from the Brooklyn.

The Cella was in great distress dur-

saved by the boats from the Brooklyn.

The Celia was in great distress during the entire trip from Fort Bragg and was compelled to accept a tow from the Brooklyn. Five times the tow line parted and finally, while the storm was at its height yesterday morning, and while the Celia and the Brooklyn were two miles off Point Reyes, the water began to pour into the fire room. At the time the steamers were in the teeth of the gale, with inonster waves breaking over the bow.

All hands were compelled to cling as best they could to ropes and chains with the prospect that the next wave would sweep them off to death.
While in this predicament and in the midst of the blinding rainstorm, the flood rose in the Celia's fire room and put out all the fires, stopping the pumps. It was then that the little steamer was at the mercy of the elements, and the crew, obliged to abandon the vessel, took to the boats and were saved by the Brooklyn.

CONFOUNDED LIBEL CASE.

ERROR IN GAGE PROCEEDINGS. casion renewed today by the Superior Court, Judges Lawler, Cook and Dunne sitting en banc, it was held that the Police Court had exclusive jurisdiction in all cases of misdemeanor, including libel. This means, in effect, that all the proceedings in the cases of John D. Spreckels and W. S. Leake, prosecuted by Gov. Henry T. Gage on charges of criminal libel, are rendered null and void; that these defendants were not entitled to a preliminary examination, and Fritz should have borne toward them not the attitude of a committing magistrate, as he did, but that of a judge of the law and the fact; that this theory gives the Superior Court only an appellate and not an original jurisdiction, and as a matter of fact the commitment binding them to appear in the higher tribunal for trial can have no force.

The jury was out twenty-four hours,

OAKLAND, Oct. 25.—An innovation OAKLAND, Oct. 25.—An innovation is being tried by the Southern Pacific Company in furnishing light for the clining and passenger cars. It is proposed to use the friction generated by the car wheels and axise insiead of a regular dynamo to produce the electricity. Three clining cars are now being fitted up at the yards under the supervision of J. M. Collins of the Consolidated Rairoad and Electric Light Company of New York. If the cars now being fitted up are a success, cars now bei operation is to utilize the friction caused by the axies and car wheels. This force has heretofore been a complete loss, but by an ingenious device much of the wasted energy will be transferred into electricity. A simple system of wiring the cars and connecting them is sufficient to complete the circuit. All the light required by the entire train can be generated by one or two cars. The cars will be ready for a test in a few days,

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-A.M.] SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Frank Norris, the brilliant young California novelist, who was hastily operated upon for appendicitis several days ago, died this morning. Norris received his literary apprenticeship in this city, where he acquired the technique of his art as a contributor of short stories and sketches to the short stories and sketches to the weekly papers.

His first novel, "Moran of the Lady Letty," was widely read and favorably criticized. "McTeague," "Blix," "A Man's Woman," and other novels followed. The work, however, that doubtless brought him the greatest fame and placed him in the front ranks of latter-day novelists, was "The Octopus," a story of the struggle between the wheat growers of California and the railroad.

"The Pit," a story of the Chicago grain market, is now running as a serial in an eastern magazine, and a third novel on a somewhat similar topic, was in course of preparation when Norris was selzed with the illness that culminated in his death.

Albert Washburn,

Albert Washburn.

SAN FRANCISCO. Oct. 25.—Albert Washburn, the oldest stage-coach driver in California, and one of the most picturesque characters of the West, died in a private hospital here today of hemorrhage of the brain. For forty years Washburn handled the ribbons and directed the coaches that swung the tourist up into the Yose-mite Valley.

Washburn was the last of the stage-coach drivers of California and the West. In his passing away there disappears the link that bound the days of old when passengers were carried by coach from San Francisco to the interior, to the times of railroads and electric lines. He began the work of piloting visitors into the Yosemite when a mere trail constituted the entrance. When the waspon road was built Washburn was made stage driver. In after years he acquired an interest in the Yosemite Stage and Turnpike Company.

A widow and daughter survive the pioneer at his late residence in this city. He was 60 years old, a rugged, robust man, and until the attack that ended in his death had seized him he was the picture of health and strength.

Company has not power to sell the canal and railway property.

(2.) That the liquidator of the old Panama Canal Company has not power to consent to such sale.

(2.) That the French courts have not power to authorize the liquidator, and the new company, or either of them, to enter into the sale.

That at all events the United States and take the property as a trust fund.

That at all events the United States would take the property as a trust fund subject to the total obligations of the stockholders, the bondholders and other creditors of both companies.

The history and nature of French companies of the kind in question are explained at length. They are said to be altogether different from our corporations, but to be easily understood if looked upon as private partnerships, which is their essential character.

The opinion says that they are in some respects regulated by law, but that these regulations do not change the essential character of the concerns as partnerships; do not establish any tie between them and the government or any obligation from them to the government, and do not forbid the exercise of liberty to dispose of their property as freely as an individual disposes of his, if no special law forbids this, if he is solvent, and not disposes of his, if no special law for-bids this, if he is solvent, and not under some particular contract or other like obligation to retain the property. The new Panama Company is quite solvent, and there is no law to forbid

The powers of the general meetings of stockholders of that company are discussed, and it is held to have derived from the partnership agreement ample power to sell, as it is proposing to do.

twell from the partnership agreement to do.

The liquidator of the old company when he turned over the assets to the new company stipulated for 60 per cent. of the profits of the canal when finished, and his power to consent to the sale and give up his right to the 60 per cent. is discussed in the light of the French law concerning the winding up of such associations, and it is held that under the general law of France, and the special act of 1833, concerning the liquidation of his company, he has full power to dispose of the assets of the concern, and consequently to consent to the sale of the 60 per cent., which is a part of those assets. It is held that the old company is not in bankruptcy or in what is similar to bankruptcy under French law, but is governed by the general law or civil code, which the special act of 1893, already referred to, partially modifies. That law requires the approval of the civil tribunal of the sale, and on appeal by a bond-holder of the old company the Court of Appeals of Paris confirmed the decision, which held that under the special law of 1893 a legal representative of the bondholders had been appointed by the court to represent them all, and that that representative, who had formally announced his consent to the sale, was the only one authorized by the special law to oppose the judgment of approval on behalf of the bondholders of the opposite the power of the proposal on behalf of the bondholders of the oppose the judgment of approval on behalf of the bondholders of the power of the proposal or behalf of the portion of the proposal or behalf of the portion of the proposal or behalf of the portion of the population of the proposal or behalf of the portion of the proposal or behalf of the portion of approval on behalf of the bondholders.

The opinion next discussed the power of the French court to declare a law of that kind void, as unconstitutional, and hold that no French court or other authority had power to declare any French statute void. The opinion says, however, that the French special act ought not to be declared void, and if it is to be criticized at all it is for being too tender of the private rights and remedies of those interested and not sufficiently like a bankruptcy law.

As to the proposition that the United States would be subject to the debts and claims of the stockholders and bondholders and other creditors of both the companies, the opinion says:

"As a general proposition it is not perceived how there could be any law or equity for subjecting an article sold as assets of a falling partnership (such as the old company) to the debts of the partnership. If such were the law there would be no purchasers of such assets, and the creditors would receive no payment of their debts out of the proceeds, or the stockholders any dividend of a residue."

Nevertheless the opinion exhaustively considers all possible mortgages and

Nevertheless the opinion exhaustively considers all possible mortgages and other liens affecting the property itself, real or personal, under French or considers all possible mortgages and other liens affecting the property itself, real or personal, under French or Colombian law. It says there have been mortgages and pledges of personal property, and shows in detail what became of them. As to the proposition that the United States cannot take title to the shares of stock of the Panama Railroad Company, a New York corporation which the Panama Company proposes to sell with the canal property, the opinion holds that the government can take and hold any lind of property it may have need of, in the same manner as an individual can; that it would hold the shares as an individual would hold the shares as an individual would hold them. As for the suggestion that the United States at all intents could not destroy the railroad it is pointed out that it was evidently not the intention of the French, if they built the canal to dispense with the railroad.

As to the objection that Congress has authorized a purchase from the new company only, and not from the liquidator, the opinion says:

"Certainly, in view of the condition of the title, as heretofore explained, the purchase will be from the new company. But if this were otherwise it would be unceasary for the ideal documents from the new company. But if this were otherwise it would be unceasary for the ide company of liquidator to join as vender. This would be to defeat, not to ascertain, the will of Congress. What it wants is a good title from the owner of certain specified property, the owner of certain specified property, the owner of certain specified property. The owner of certain specified property. The owner of certain specified property, the owner of certain specified property.

ownership should be found not to be in the new company.

"Whether we believe it is in the new company-or the old company, so long as it is not out of both, seems to me altogether immaterial, since both join in the proposed sale."

The opinion closes as follows:

"For the reasons I have given, I am of the opinion that the United States would receive a good valid and unencumbered title."

To the opinion are 250 pages of exhibits in support of its statements, also the responses of the French and American counsel of the new Panama Canal Company to the objections formulated by the Attorney-General, and which had been considered by him independently.

ence of petroleum in the guit coastai plain, extending inland for 100 miles, has been known as far back as 1860. The report says the extreme porosity of Spindle Top oil rock favors the storage of a very large volume of oil and a very rapid yield when the reservoir is tapped.

Beds of sulphur-bearing sand are reported from some of the wells on Spindle Top, and beds of gypsum and of sult from others. The conclusion is reached with regard to the Spindle Top field that the Spindle Top rock contains about one-fourth of its volume of oil. Ever if the estimate is one harrel obtained for every twenty-six cubic feet for Spindle Top, and a little less for other fields, there should be a yield equal to the Bakus field in Rustia, and greater than that of the other fields of the United States. The report also says that the apparent concensus of opinion among chemists who have examined the field, is that the rulf coast petroleum is unsuited for the report also says that the apparent con-census of opinion among chemists who have examined the field, is that the gulf coast petroleum is unsuited for the production of illuminating oil, and that it is doubtful-if it can be made to yield a good lubricating oil on a commercial basis. Its value as a source of asphalt, and a gas oil are as yet undetermined. The experi-ments seem to establish both its avail-ability and its economy as a generator of steam. Whether the Beaumont pe-troleum may be successfuly used in metallurgical processes is not yet set-tled.

CIVIL SERVICE RULES.

IMPORTANT CHANGES OF YEAR. [BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-A.M.] WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—The Civil Service Commission has issued a state-ment reviewing the important change in the civil service rules during the past fiscal year, and expressing the opinion that these changes have ma-terially diminished the political in-fluence exerted in the government service, and strengthened the competitive system. Referring to the matter of re movals from office upon charges, the ommission says:
"It is believed that the construction promulgated on May 29, 1902, has been in the interest of good administration, and no case of the removal of any person from the public service for im son from the public service for im-proper reasons has since been brought to the attention of the commission. The commission, on the contrary, believes that even under the present construc-tion a far greater number of employes who ought to be removed will be re-tained in the service than the number of removals of those who ought to be retained. Appointing officers are usu-ally very rejuctant to make removals which involve hardship on the persons removed."

Old Stories Retold.

People never tire of hearing the oftrepeated story of the success of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. From all over the country and even in far away india, China and the South Sea Islands, come letters from druggists and dealers, stating the rare pleasure they derive from handling a preparation which gives such universal satisfaction. They all tell the same story of the undoubted merit of this remedy, and of its efficacy in the relief of coughs, colds and croup, and personally recommend it to their customers. The remedy is sold on a positive guarantee and

William Randolph Hearst, candidate for Congress in the Eleventh Manhattan District, who is organizing a big Congressional mass meeting, to be held in Madison Square Garden October 27, has invited Cleveland to speak. At Democratic State headquarters it was said if Cleveland does not accept this invitation, he will probably not speak in this State during the campaign.

Cleveland, it is said, thinks that Hill has outdone himself in selfish intrigue in this compaign. He believed that New York had the key to the Democratic national situation, if no mistakes were made at the State convention. He expected that a platform

Mr. Shaw thus separates himself from the Republicans of his State on this question, and again shows his faith in comprehensively high protection. Probably no speech of the campaign has gone farther than the address at Chicago, in which he justified the practice by which France and Germany sell sugar abroad cheap, and at home for a price so high as to make it a luxury taking that partic-

"Subsistence problems in the Philippines den." Subsistence problems in the Philippines den." The pines have presented at all times complex and difficult problems, but the present period has been one of extreme difficulty to meet satisfactorily. New it and shifting conditions have arisen at every step, and what is wisdom today is becomes a futility tomorrow, so that it has been impossible to map out any settlement and satisfactory basis will soon be reached upon which intelligent attention may be founded.

"The question of transportation is the max difficult and important one which has to be dealt with now, and this is particularly true with regard to the most difficulties incident to the situation, the fact remains that lack of equal and satisfactory transportation facilities is the cause of just and endless complaint, and brings criticism and odium upon the subsistence department for failure in a matter over which it has no control, but which so vitally concerns it. Troops in many places are wholly dependent upon the subsistence department for their food supply, and they complain of being deprived of supplies not only absolutely essentialies and loc, but others required for their wants and comfort. Large losses are entailed by delays in shippents of perishable stores."

Gen. Weston recommends that wherever permanent posts are located in the Philippines, cold-storage and icemarking plants be provided.

wish, we prefer to construct it at our own expense and make it accessible to the commerce of all the world on equal terms, believing the advantage to American commerce will justify the very large expenditure of public money. It is now nearer from the principal commercial ports of Europe to SanFrancisco, than from New York to the same port when both sail via Cape Horn. It is also nearer from European ports to San Francisco by the Sues Canal than from New York to our western metropolis via Cape Horn. Thus two ships may start from Europe, one via Cape Horn and the other via the Sues Canal, and they will both reach San Francisco in advance of our own vessels of equal speed. If Your Friend is Sick

As an act of humanity, tell me a friend who needs help. That is all-just a postal card-just the cost of a penny. Tell me the book to send.

Then I will do this:- I will mail the sick one an order-good at any drug store-for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month to learn what it will do. If it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

I do that so that those who need belp will accept it.

I have what those sick ones must have to get well, and I want my offer so fair that no sick one can neglect it.

You may think it too fair to be possible, but I do just as I say.
I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands in this way, and 20 out of each 40 have paid gladly, because they were cured. It willingly pay for the rest.

It is a remarkable remedy that makes such an offer possible, and I have spent my lifetime on It. It is my discovery, and the only known treatment that strengthens the inside nerves.

The common way is to doctor the organ that is weak, but that way brings at best but tempor ary results. My way is to bring back the nerve power which alone operates every vital organ. I give to each organ the power to do its duty, and there is no other way to make weak organs well, goal. Brown fell forward, landing the ball on Yale's 10-yard line. Yale here held for downs, but soon lost the ball again. The Syracuse captain worked the ball directly in front of the Yale goal, only twenty yards away, and gave the signal to Full-back Morris to throw a field goal. The attempt was poor and falled to score.

Throughout the game Yale's standard offensive was tackle-back. With exception of but a few times Hogan carried the ball and made three of the four touchdowns. The half-backs were sent around the ends only infrequently, mass plays against the line being preferred by both quarter-backs. Yale's defense was improved noticeably and her offense was much stronger than last week.

Aim of the Anthracite Strike Commission.

Going at Problem Like Skilled Physician.

Wright Given a Vote-Conditions in Coal Fields-Espee Situation.

IBT DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.1 WASHINGTON, Oct. 25 .- [Exclusive Dispatch.] "The anthractic coal strike commission is going about its task like a skilled physician. There is a diseased condition in the hard-coal fields. We are going to diagnose the case carefully. We are not going to rest content with temporary relief, but we are going to seek out the cause, and, if possible, remove that cause so that permanent health may come to industrial condi-tions in the anthracite district."

E. E. Clark, one of the members of the commission, made this statement today in discussing the work of the commission. Clark is the only member actively connected with a labor organization, and while he enjoys a reputation for conservatism, he is generally looked to as the way who will bear the content of the ooked to as the man who will become the active partisan of the striking min-ers should the meetings of the commis-sion develop a situation where the miners need an aggressive champion in the "There is something that is not men-

"I take it that the President had some such result in view when he talked to us yesterday about establish-ing between the mine workers and op-erators in the anthracite fields, relations on a just and permanent basis. I shall be greatly disappointed if we fail to do this. I do not believe any action by Congress will be necessary, but that the commission will be able to establish this basis on a better and more lasting foundation than if it were

Persons who are talking of such a law do not under-stand what they are talking about. The scheme has been tried in New Zea-land, and while it is still in operation, it is bitterly criticised by the great masses of the people, and a strong ef-fort is being made to have the law repealed. You cannot bring capital and labor together by law. They can be brought together by voluntary arbitra-tion. That is the line on which really thoughtful people are working. That is the line, I believe, that the commission

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—The Record-Herald says the National Association of Manufacturers of the United States, through a circular letter being mailed to every manufacturer in this country, declares war on two bills, now before Congress, for which union labor is re-sponsible.

Particular stress is laid on the efforts of labor to secure the passage of an eight-hour-day law before Congress, which is called "vicious." Recipients of these letters are asked to become members of the manufacturers' association. The letters bear the signature of David M. Parry of Indianapolis, the president.

Kruttschnitt Says Relations Were Never Better and Rumors of Impending Trouble are False-Harriman Names Committee to Consider Griev-

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-A.M.] OAKLAND, Oct. 25.—The prevailing sentiment among the railway em-ployés of the Southern Pacific Comphoyes of the Southern Pacine Com-pany is that there will be no strike, but that an amicable settlement of all the demands which have been made by the various unions will be arrived at. The willingness of the company to confer with the men and listen to their grievances is a point in the company's favor, and will have the effect of moderating whatever action which may

Many of the unions stand in highest favor with the company. Ine-engineers have always been considered to represent a sober and intelligent element and their requests have always been heeded. The confidence reposed in this organization by the railroad officials in the past has been so great that it was impossible for an engineer that it was impossible for an engine to secure work unless he was mended by the union. There is strong sentiment among the men against attempting to secure better against attempting to secure better wages by strike methods. The men consider their demands just, and believe that by calling the attention of the company officials to their wants that gradually all that had been asked for will be granted.

About three-fourths of the men employed at the West Oakland shops are unionists. There has been little or no effort on the part of the company to kill the union spirit, but on the contrary in some matters the company has lent distinct encouragement to the men. KRUTTSCHNITT'S TALK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-A.M.] BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25.—Despite the persistent rumors of impending trouble between the Southern Pacific and its employes, there seems little disposition among the officials of the big system to worry over the situation. Julius Kruttschnitt, general manager of the Southern Pacific and assistant to the president, made a definite statement regarding the attitude of the company toward the men, which will go far toward allaying any uneasiness which may have been caused by the circulation of mischievous reports.

uneasiness which may have been caused by the circulation of mischievous reports.

"For some reason or other." said Kruttschnitt, "some papers appear to have adopted a policy which can only make trouble. Some of the statements which have been published within the past few days have been absolutely without foundation and others have so distorted facts that the public would be quite unable to form correct opinions upon them.

"In the first place, let me say that the relations between the Southern Pacific and its men have never been more pleasant than they are at this time. There is no friction, nor is there any cause for friction. It is true that there are matters for negotiation, but it is not true that that negotiation is in any way liable to lead to any trouble whatever between the company and the men."

Mr. Keeney was understood to be willing to act, if his selection was unanimous, and it is not anticipated that the factions will make a contest over the matter.

In the Democratic camp things are less harmonious, and there is a three-cornered fight on between Frank James, Dr. Edelman and Stanton. The First Ward has agreed, however, to support Frank James, and he will probably be the choice of the convention, although Dr. Edelman has a strong following, that will warmly support him, unless concessions made to their candidates for the city offices shall induce Edelman to retire in favor of Javes. Le Grand Parker is understood to favor James, also, and the prophets around the Parker headquarters are confident that James will wield the gavel on Tuesday at the Democratic deliberations.

UNION-LABOR FURORE. M'CAFFREY'S POLITICAL STIR.

Yesterday Tom McCaffrey, chief train dispatcher and political wire-puller for the big railroad in the southern jurisdiction, however, reconsidered for his company, and started a sensation that made a worse furore in labor-union circles than the incarceration of Eugene V. Debs.

J. O. Peebles, a switchman in the employ of the Southern Pacific company, is a candidate on the labor-union ticket for Councilman for the Seventh Ward, and has been making quite an active canvass for the place, but yesterday morning word was conveyed to J. MORE FOREIGN TROUBLE. UNCERTAIN TARIFF TREATIES. [BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS-A.M.] BERLIN, Oct. 25.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Fresh foreign difficulties have arisen for Chancellor Van Buelow on account of the tariff uncertainty. The government some time ago decided not to give in December the year's notice of the termination of commercial treaties that is expected as a preliminary to negotiations for new agreements. This decision was communicated to Russia, Austria, Italy and Switzerland.

Russia, Austria, Italy and Switzerland. Russia, the correspondent of the Associated Press learns, has repiled requesting Germany to agree to five years' extension of the existing treaty and intimating that unless such an agreement is made, Russia herself might find it necessary to renounce the treaty. Austria has also formally expressed a desire to conclude an immediate arrangement that should settle trade relations for a longer period than a year.

The Reichstag, under the order of business, will take up the budget December 1 and be busy with it until March. The government by then may find a majority for its present bill by utilizing the fears of the Agrarians that the approaching elections will reduce the number of their representatives in the Reichstag by recognising that if the grain duties are increased at all it must be done by the present house.

this I am afraid you can't do it as a Southern Pacific employé."

"But, Mr. McCaffrey"—Peebles eliminated the "Tom"—"that is interfering with my constitutional rights. I presume you mean that I can quit, though, if I don't get out of politics."

"That is about the size of it, Peebles," said McCaffrey, "but we will give you until Monday to consider. Let me know then."

This terminated the interview, and Peebles went down stairs deeply thinking, and afterward hied himself to the labor-union headquarters to confer with his colleagues. His disclosures to the secretary started a general summons that electrified the railroad men and the labor unionists, and a convention of the candidates was hurriedly called.

In addition to Peebles, there are two other Southern Pacific employés who are running for city offices. They are S. A. McInnes of the Switchmen's Union and W. D. Tilley of the B.R.T. McInnes wants to be City Assessor and Tilley is after the Councilmanic job in the First Ward. All are candidates of the Union Labor party.

Up to last night neither McInnes nor Tilley had been summoned to the throne in the Arcade Station, but they said they didn't know just what minute the call might come. However, at the meeting at Labor Union Hall on South Spring street everybody kissed the labor-union "totem" and swore to quit their jobs rather than forsake their political aspirations, and now the question arises, will the Southern Pacific lose some good switchmen and the wards gain some doubtful Councilmen, or will both lose the rising political stars and another railizond gain some new switchmen?—And, then, too, is it the Southern Pacific. Tom McCaffrey or Ingram that is in politics, and if so, when?

While crossing North Main street near Arcadia street yesterday morning. Felipe E. Avlia, formerly a Deputy Constable, and a well-known character about town, was struck by an electric car of the Alhambra line. He was knocked a considerable distance and when assistance reached him was unconscious and bleeding from a wound on the back of the head. It is said that he had been drinking and paid no attention to the warning of the gong on the car. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where it was found that his injuries were very serious, and he was then removed to the County Hospital. He lingered there until o'clock last night, when he died without having recovered consciousness. He was about forty years of age. He was married and had one child, but had not been living with his wife for a long time.

Letter from the Physical Director of the Omaha, Neb. Metropolitan Police Force.

DAN BALDWIN of Omaha, Neb. is a wrestler of national as well as local reputation. He is a Physical Director of the Omaha Metropolitan Police Force and is considered the strongest man in the State of Nebraska. But even the finest physique and best trained muscles cannot protect a man from disease. Mr. Baldwin suffered with catarrh. Instead drinking of milk from a tuberculosis cow?"

He did not affirm, he said, that the transmission of tuberculosis from animal to man was impossible, but that cases of the kind were extremely rare if they did occur. He had collected twenty-eight cases of apparent transmission of tubercular baccilli—a very small number—and in none of these could the source of infection be stated positively, the data being incomplete. "If measures are taken to combat animal tuberculosis," went on Prof. Koch, "they must be on economic, not sanitary, grounds. In order to combat the disease we must find the root of the evil, establish better dwellings and workshops, avoid overcrowding and isolate persons who are affected with tuberculosis can be successfully combatted."

Prolonged cheers followed the reading of Prof. Koch's naper, which will Baldwin sumered with catarra. Officer Dan Baldwin, Central Iolice Station

The muscles depend upon the nerve centers for their strength. The nerve centers become exhausted and weak. With weak nerve centers the muscles become flabby and no amount of training can develop them. Thus it is that strong muscles depend upon healthy nerve centers. Healthy nerve centers depend upon good digestion. Good digestion depends upon clean mucous membranes, free from catarrh.

No man troubled with internal catarrh can ever become an athlete.

Horrible Death of George Lembecke in Inyo County Mountains-Court

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 25.—W. T. Bergin, a mining man from Inyo county, is in the city, and tells of the recent terrible death of George Lembecke of Upland. Bergin, Lembecke and a man from High Grove were prospecting in Inyo county. Lembecke became separated form his companions and failed to return to camp. The next morning his companions started out to hunt for him. They kept up the search five days, and finally, guided by buszards circling in the air, they found the remains of their missing comrade, almost stripped of flesh by the vultures, hanging by the neck over the edge of a precipice. He had plunged in the dark over the precipice and caught his neck in a tangled wild grape vine, and unable to extricate himself, had slowly strangled to death. He had no relatives in this vicinity. The tragedy occurred in a spot remote from civilization, and the remains were buried in the mountain cafion. SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 25.-W. T.

When court reconvened today all the jurors were in their seats, and the two men, who, by reason of boose, caused the trouble yesterday, temporarily escaped the wrath of the court. Juror Burleigh of Highland, however, soon was fast asleep. Judge Noyes took judicial notice of the fact, and in vigorous terms rebuked the offender, stating that he was evidently not in a fit condition to perform his important duties. Burleigh was committed to the County Jail until Monday morning at 10 o'clock, when the case will be resumed, provided Burleigh and his jag have parted company.

TO STUDY BY NIGHT.

UPLAND, Oct. 25.—A determination to climb up the ladder illuminated by the lamp of learning is shown by young workmen students of this town. A number of the young men whose time during the day is employed in the packing-houses have concluded that a course of organized night study would be superior to the indifferent normal training of the billiard halls or other places of amusement of doubtful value. They have accordingly established a night school and have established a night school and have secured Miss Clara Williams for their teacher.

Dr. McIntyre has all his life been in close touch with the people, and is well calculated to make his topic a most interesting one. At the age of 11 years he began to work in a mill, later learned the trade of a brick-layer, and as such helped to rebuild fine city of Chicago after the great fire. It was not until 1878 that he entered the ministry, and ten years later he occupied the pulpit in the largest Methodist Church in Chicago.

BOYS' RALLY.

James A. Foshay. City Superinten-dent of Schools, will address the boys' neeting at the Y.M.C.A. at 4 o'clock meeting at the Y.M.C.A. at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Prof. Foshay is a thor-ough friend of boys, and will no doubt deliver an address well worth the while of every boy in Los Angeles to hear, and they are all invited to be there. The singing will be by the boys' choir, in charge of Prof. Dupuy. This choir practices every Saturday evening, and is likewise open to every boy in the city.

One of the rarest entertainments given in Los Angeles for a long time will be the Authors' Recital, booked for Simpson Auditorium on November 7. All the readings and music, both vocal and instrumental, will be given by their several authors, all local talent. An opportunity will thus be afforded the people of the city to hear many authors who are a credit to the city.

On account of the meeting of the Ministerial Union at the Y.M.C.A. tomorrow there will be no meeting of the Methodist preachers, and it is ex-pected that Francis Murphy will ad-dress the latter, November 10.

E. M. Dickerson There With Plans to Build Tourist Hotel—Report That Pacific Coast Steamship Company Will Discontinue Passenger Traffic.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 25.—Should be consideration in SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 25.—Should certain plans under consideration in this city be carried out, Catalina will have a rival as an island resort, but twenty-eight miles off the mainland from here. The plans are embryotic, but will be undertaken in all seriousness. Early this morning the private gasoline yacht, Lillian, sailed into the harbor with E. M. Dickerson, a wealthy eastern lawyer, who spends his summers at Catalina, on board. He was accompanied by Mrs. Dickerson, and it is expected that they will remain in Santa Barbara several days.

The object of Mr. Dickerson's visit is to make a tour of Santa Cruz Island, which is thirty miles in length and about nine miles wide, with a view of ascertaining its adaptability and general convenience for resort purposes. The plan in view is to build a large tourist hotel near one of the most favorably situated of the numerous harbors along the coast of the island, provided the location selected may be acquired by either lease or purchase, the latter course being preferred. Mr. Dickerson and a party of local men expect to leave for the island at an early hour tomorrow and spend the day looking over the territory.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful it is in Pre-serving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realiss its value when taken into the human system for the same cleanning purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impur-ities always present in the stomach and in-testines and carries them out of the sys-tem.

the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently asfe cathartic. It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the meuth and throat from the poison of catarth. All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Sturt's Absorbent Lozenges; they are composed of the most powdered Willow Charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, ar rather in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges. The daily use of these lozenges will some the in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges. The daily use of these lozenges will some tell in a most better complexion, awater breach the money of the charcoal being mixed with an except the money of the continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefit of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost thut 3c cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patient preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

place for an all-year-round tourist hotel, have been recognized and movements have been under way to establish a resort there. Geologists of national reputation have visited the island and have pronounced it one of the most wonderful natural formations in western waters. The marine caves which line the shore on all sides attract thousands of sightseers every season, though there are practically no inhabitants on the island.

SERIOUS RUNAWAY. OXNARD, Oct. 25.—A. P. Maulhardt was thrown from his buggy and seriwas thrown from his buggy and seri-ously injured this morning. His horses became frightened and ran against a telegraph pole. Mr. Maulhardt is in a very dangerous condition, as his in-juries are internal. Mr. Maulhardt is one of the leading beet and bean grown ers of Ventura county, and has done much toward furthering irrigation. RAIN AND BEETS.

The sugar factory is running at only balf capacity on account of the poor condition of the troads, which makes it impossible for the full amount of beets to be hauled. The rain has caused a slight new growth in the beets, and this has necessarily lessened the per cent. of sugar content.

More Elegant Garments

Than at Our Opening

Our buyer has just returned from New York with a wealth of entirely new and extremely rich garments—many more, in fact, than at our opening.

And they're exclusive nothing like them, nothing so elaborate, elsewhere in this section of the country.

Exclusiveness in

Coats, Wraps and Furs

Fresh from the maker's hands—every garment possessing in a very marked degree individual characteristics and decisive expressions of advanced style ideas warments that you can put on with the pleasant assurance that you're not going to meet your double on every corner. The Unique avoids the commenplace and protects the buyers of its extremely rich creations by getting only one of a kind and refusing to order duplicates.

Tailored Suits and Costumes. The costumes-rarely beautiful creations in which French taste and American in uity are combined—baffle description. We won't attempt it. As to the suits, no we can tell the charm of their "style"—the smartness of the woolens, the cleverness the designing, the perfection of the tailoring, etc—but this brief mention of cloths cuts may be helpful:

Materials—A dozen or more different materials:
Etamines, Basket Cloths, Scotch Tweeds and other rough stuffs having the call.
Skirts—Box-pleated over silk or cotton drop, some have slot seams with foot pleats, some have panel front with double flounce, some nine-gore have with double slot seams.

Separate Skirts.

Every stylish cut in Etamines, Canvas cloths, Broadcloth, Venetians, Pebble Cheviots, etc., Some unlined; some with silk or cotton drop skirts; some with silk or cloth bands around hips; some side pleated, with extra velvet straps, seven-gore uppers with tucked flounce; panel fronts with box-pleated flounces, and many other distinctly new styles.

The New Waists.

Fairly bewildering in their variety and bear looking and attractive for every day wear, to elaborate confections of silk for afternoon evening. Prominent in the display are the less cotton waists that the Easterners are raving they're here in white and every desirable at ing—all prices.

A wild Yara.

A short-time ago a wild-eyed yarn was circulated around town to the effect that some syndicate, unnamed, was preparing plans for the erection of a twenty-eight-story office building, somewhere near Fourth and Spring streets, the idea being to thus boost up the value of land in that neighborhood, which the syndicate would acquire in advance. One would suppose that a monstrous building like this would make sensible people hasten to get away from the shadow of it.

SALES MOSTLY OF OUTLYING AND OUTSIDE PROPERTY.

Acquirement of city acreage pieces for subdivision into lots and the purchase of country acreage for subdivision into small farming tracts are among the more notable real estate transfers of the week. There have been a few close-in deals of some importance and several others of considerable size are extracted.

The Stearns Rancho Company has sold to the Townsend-Robinson Investment Company 2200 acres in La Habra Valley about six miles east of Whittier. The purchasers have also bought 200 inches of water from the East Whittier ditch, which is to be piped through the land. It is understood that the land will be subdivided into ten and twenty-acre lots.

Among the deeds recorded within the past week is one showing the transfer from Frank G. Schumacher, Percival F. Schumacher, and Virginia O. Schumacher, to H. R. Houston of fifteen acres situated between Pico and Washington streets; consideration named, $20,000. This property with the Pico Heights Convent property forms a twenty-acre piece of which the convent property is the northeast quarter.

IN THE DAYS OF THE BOOM. ists Were in Flower-Cutting of

Orchards and Vineyards,

[Williard's History of Los Angeles:] In addition to the tourists and settlers, the cheap excursions brought another class, to wit: the speculators. Some of these were genuine real estate operators, who had the capital to make improvements in their purchases, always, however, with a view to retailing at a profit; others—and they constituted the greater number—were entrely impecunious, but possessed of unlimited assurance, and they had acquired more or less experience through paper towns, whose lots possessed no value whatever. The assessment figures for the county, outside the city, show what was happening in those years of folly. In 1886, $32,000,000: the 1887 it nearly doubled. $82,000,000: the next year. $83,000,000. Then came the awakening; in 1889 it was $47,000,000, and in 1890 it fell clear back to a figure below that with which the boom had started, $20,000,000. Here was where the only reaction from the boom was started, $20,000,000. Here was where the only reaction from the boom was to be found.

The money lost in this change of values—which was not as much as it might seem from these figures—came chiefly from inexperienced people of limited means, of whom some had just chiefly from inexperienced people of limited means, of whom some had just come to the country to settle, and were talked into foolish investments, and others were merely passing through the region as tourists, and thought to profit in a little speculation. Incredible as it may seem, the lots in the silly, towns were nearly all sold. One scoundrel disposed of $50,000 worth of lots in towns located on the top of the mountains where in all probability no human foot will ever tread. Many Los Angeles people were tempted into unwise speculations, but few of them were permanently injured in the affair. Enormous amounts of money changed hands. The recorded real estate transfers of 1887 aggregated $100,000,000, and probably not more than half the operations of the year were ever entered up. There is no real estate boom in history that is to be compared with this, either in gross magnitude or in sudden contrasts of values. We have noted in various other instances that when Los Angeles has undertaken to accomplish a thing, it has done the work very thoroughly.

DOPE WAS CORDIAL TO ARCHBISHOP RIORDAN.

INCIDENTS OF BRIEF AUDIENCE SURPRISE THE CALIFORNIAN.

Aged Pontiff Displays Remarkable Memory and Intimate Knowledge of Church Affair:-Four Hundred Irish Pilgrims Presented.

ROME, Oct. 25.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Pope granted a cordial half-hour audience to Archbishop Riordan of San Francisco today, and surprised the latter by his clear memory and intimate knowledge of California affairs, particularly the Pions fund case, from both the historical and legal standpoints. The archbishop said he could give the Pontiff little information which he did not already possess. The Pope remarked that the principle which The Hague tribunal had adopted in this case, would simplify the solution of similar queetions of Pious funds exist-

The Hague tround of similar questions of Pious funds existing in the Philippines.

The audience ended with cordial inquiries on the part of the Pontiff regarding the condition of the church in California.

Gens. Young and Corbin Return and Give Interesting Impressions of Germany and England.

int The associated PRESS-P.M.1
NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Maj.-Gens.
Corbin and Young returned today on the steamer Philadelphia from Southhampton. Speaking of their trip,

"We attended the maneuvers of the German army and visited England, where we were cordially received. We wore the new uniform at the maneuversand the press spoke highly of it. The Germans, however, do not think it adapted to their country, while in England they thought favorably of it.

"I met Gen. Roberts and Gen. Kitchener, with whom I was much impressed. In England it impressed me that while they keep track of Europe and know its history and habits, they know comparatively little about ds. However, they, are learning more about us now. Gen. Leonard Wood will return home on a steamer leaving November 3.

ROCK RAINED ON SPECTATORS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Three persons were badly injured, and a great many others narrowly escaped by the explosion of a charge of dynamite at Park avenue and Forty-first street, where work is in progress in connection with the station on the Rapid Transit subway. A large number of persons were standing on the sidewalk above, watching the men at work, when suddenly a foul explosion was heard, and tons of rock of all sizes were projected into the air. Most of the serious accidents in connection with the subway work have occurred in this vicin. The Areal estate & trices to the second seco there was no four-flushing the form tyers yesterday at the races, for the ick had dried out sufficiently from iday's rain to make the going very of except next to the rail. Consently the best horse won in almost try race, but not always the one that tried the most of the public money, hile the books paid out a big amount several races, they best the layers the others and won something for itr day's work.

a several races, they beat the layers a the others and won something for self day's work.

Notwithstanding the many other atactions in town yesterday, chief mong these being Sousa, the races rew a big crowd of sports and a great any ladies were in the 5000. The rand stand was three-parts filled, the strings field held a large array of vecies, and the usual struggling mass humanity hung on the outside rail front of the grand stand.

The racing was good, the finishes beg close in every race but two. The ooks were kept busy at all times and big pile of money was handled. Yesterday was one of the few days hich furnished passable harness races at each of the drivers seemed deterished to win. There was but little ckeying and the results showed that the best horse got there. The winner the 2:18 trot turned up in Zambra, he had sufficient staying power to this the last three heats of the seven required to determine a winner. He as generally the favorite in the aucon pools.

The 2:16 class pace was a good race, soney in three straight heats. It was resported that at one time Dictatress ras as good as 10 to 1 in the pools and the talent was greatly astonished when the captured three heats off the reel. The feature of the running card was he Santa Anita handicap at a mile and I quarter, which was the fourth run. It had not only the best horses in it, but the four fost jockeys, and as the form players expected, the favorite, Frank Woods, won easily. The entries were Frank Woods, ridien by Lewis; Lodestar, by Ransch; Morinel, by Sullivan, and Ulica, by Boseman. They got off to a good start, with Ulica in the lead, followed by Lodestar and Morinel. Down past the stand Lodestar showed in front by three lengths from Morinel, a half-ength ahead of Ulica, and she almost two to the good of Woods. They ran strung out this way, with their positions unchanged, until racing around the lower turn. Lodestar was still in the lead, two lengths ahead of Ulica, who was one ahead of Morinel and two ahead of Woods. Lewis, however, had the latter going easily, and at the head of the stretch, merely shook him up a triffs. Seemingly, without great effort, he came on and down through the stretch, walked by his struggling field and won easily by half a length from Lodestar, with Morinel fave lengths away for the place. Morinel and Ulica were strongly played to win, but did not seem to be able to negotiate the distance in the going and finished tired. Ransch set the pace on Lodestar in the hope of taking the hearts out of those behind him, but he shot his boit too early in the long race and had not enough left to stall off such a good stayer as Woods, ridden by such a good sick as Lewis.

Ransch won the first dash on the favorite. El Piloto, at the short odds of 2 to 5, but he had to ride his best to win by a neck from the good thing. Temecula. This one raced into the lead at the half, and stayed there ahead of El Piloto, until Ransch, by fine work, got the favorite under the wire first in the last part of the stretch run. Plackthorn, at 10 to 1, got away in third blace, and never lost it.

The next event at six and a half priongs, furnished something spectacular in the actions of the favorite. Cowboy, ridden by Ransch. He is a nervous beast, and a bad actor at the post, and lelayed the get-away fifteen minutes by his circus dancing, and his refusal to break with the others. In the three or four false starts, he ran a sixteenth of a mile each time, before Ransch could check him, and his pranks probably lost him the race. On the final break, he beat the others by a flying start, but dropped back to third place and finally finished fourth. Quidado, when the Mexicans bet on to a man, raced in the lead to the three-quarters and then fell back to third place, being passed by Mythrox and Legal Maxim, and this was the way they ended.

and then fell back to third place, being passed by Mythrox and Legal Max.m., and this was the way they ended.

The fifth race at five and a half furlongs, was thought by some to have been a dump for the talent, but the form chart don't show it. Mike Rice, who is known to be a mudder, was made the favorite, but a straight tip out on Idogo, put him a strong second choice. The big field of eight jumped off on fairly even terms, and were somewhat bunched up after passing the half. Mike Rice was sixth at the start and was sewed up apparently, and could not get out until well into the stretch. Then it was too late, for Idogo, Del Vista, and Tompion were ahead of him, and running their heads off to win. Under Kansoh's vigorous riding Idogo pulled away from the others, and won easily by almost two lengths, Del Vista getting the place by a neck from Tompion, who was a head before Mike Rice.

The sixth race was the Santa Anita Handicap, and the final, a six-furlong dash, was the Hotel Rosslyn Handicap. There were five good ones in this and all the best jocks were up. Malaspina had Ransoh, Golden Light had Bozeman, Sullivan was on Straggler, Lewis on Annie Max and J. Sheehan on Troy. It was a very hard one to pick, and a lot of sports lost a bunch of money trying to do the trick.

Ransoh on Malaspina, made her a 6 to 5 favorite, but, Golden Light and Straggler haddigut as many supporters at 8 to 5, and a good play went on Annie Max at 7. Darkness had almost settled down on the track when the race was called, and many saw mothing but the finish. Golden Light broke first, and the favorite was leading at the three-quarters. In Then Troy led at the three-quarters, all the others having suddenly rushed up out of the darkness past Malaspina, a head each separating Troy. Straggler, winning by half a length, Annie Max four lengths back from the show money.

WINTER RACING. MEETING IN FEBRUARY. Winter racing is now assured

Winter racing is now assured for Los Angeles during the next five years, for yesterday, Manager J. W. Brooks of the Racing Association signed a five-years lease of Agricultural Park.

This possibility has been noised about for a week, but not until yesterday was it made public on the signing of the lease, which will go into effect next Saturday, November 1.

In speaking of the matter last night, Mr. Brooks stated that it was his intention to, at once, begin the improvement of the grounds. Two men will be at once put to work making minor changes, such as cleaning out weeds and repairing fences, and after the first of the year a larger force will be put on.

and repairing fences, and after the first of the year a larger force will be put on.

The antire inner field will be planted with grass seed and put in shape for a polo ground, where the polo matches that are now held at Santa Barbara and Santa Monica, may be given. The same field will be used for football games and short sprint horse races on the turf, and for any other similar amusements.

Beginning about February 1, a thirty-day running race meeting will be given. During the winter season, it is thought that the thousands of eastern tourists in this city and vicinity would liberally patronize a good race meet and Mr. Brooks says he intents to have such. Large numbers of eastern race horses will come to the Coast this winter to race at San Francisco and Oakland, and if a meet is assured here, many that generally race at New. Orleans, would be sent to Los Angeles. The new management will not interfere with the holiday races of the Los Angeles Driving club and these will be given as usual during the winter.

football team of the University of Southern California has gone down to defeat. Yesterday morning a little band of enthusiasts left with the iocal eleven for Santa Ana to do up the pumpkin-rollers of the lowlands, but they found to their surprise that the boys of that burg could not only roll pumpkins, but they could play football to a finish. As a whole, the playing of both teams was loose and ragged, but at times there were spectacular plays and some good foothail. Santa Ana kicked off and U.S.C. worked the ball down the field to Santa Ana's 5-yard line, where it was lost on a fumble. By fierse playing U.S.C. forced their opponents back, pushing them across the line for a safety and thus making their only score of two points.

In the second half the ball seesawed across the field with neither side having much the best of it until finally on the U.S.C. 60-yard line Walker of Santa Ana made a sensational drop kick, which scored five points and a victory for his team. Neither goal was in the least danger during the remainder of the play. Several men were more or less injured in the battle. The most serious acident happened to Robert Grimes of the university eleven, who had his collar-bone broken. He will not be able to play again this season.

Some idea of the relative strength of the Pomona and U.S.C. teams can be gleaned from yesterday's game, as score of 23 to 6. The teams lined up as follows in yesterday's contest:

A three-bagger and a two-bagger in the tenth won the game for the Nationals. The feature of the game was the snappy fielding of both teams. Several times three men were on bases, but by sharp fielding the side would be retired without a score. The work of the batteries was superb.

Former President of the United States Grover Cleveland followed Mr. Patton in an address on behalf of the board of trustees. He said, in part: CLEVELAND'S ADDRESS.

am moved by the stately dignity of present surroundings, and thus give a hint of the impressive effect which such exercises as these are apt to produce on those who lack personal intimacy with university experiences and incidents.

"This thought leads me to suggest the great importance and desirability of influencing in every possible way the plain people of our land in favor of higher education. It is largely from their ranks that recruits are to be enlisted for studentship in our universities and colleges; and surely neither attenuated refinement in educated circles, nor a self-satisfied aristocracy among educated men, should misinterpret to the unlearned the mission of these institutions. Manifestly they cannot, and even if they could, they should not live for themselves, nor for their professors and teachers, nor for their praduates, nor yet for the educated, whoever and wherever they may be. On the contrary, it should not be forgotten that our colleges and universities cannot, without loss of their most useful opportunities, disregard any means of commending the substantial advantages they are able to offer to those less fortunate in educational condition. This connection of close interest and reciprocal benefits which should exist between the agencies of higher education and the unlearned masses of our people is not new at Princeton University.

"We have fallen upon days of rush and change—when old ideas and processes are deemed too slow to meet the demands of what is called modern progress and when novel and accelerated notions have invaded the business, the politics, the social life and even the religion of our people. How can we be certain that old and heretofore approved theories of higher education are in no danger of being caught in this flurry. Already there seems to be an inclination abroad to adjust the method of university and college instruction to the apparent needs of advanced conditions and new exigencies. We hear much eadid in favor of but slight restriction upon the election by students of upon life's activities; and considerable discussion prevails in university and college circles concerning the extent and quality of instruction that should be afforded in preparatory schools.

importunate restlessness and doubtful innovation.

"While Princeton's trustees concede that a liberal amount of recreation should be allowed and that athletics to a reasonable degree should be encouraged, they believe these things should be kept in strict subordination to the business of education, which both teachers and students have in hand, and that when extensive demerit, or a large percentage of absolute failure in examinations prevail among those devoting much time and attention to athletics, suspicion should be aroused that the business of study has been thus interrupted."

interrupted."

WILSON'S INAUGURAL.

President Wilson followed with his inaugural address. He said:

"The ration needs efficient and enlightened men and the universities must take their part in supplying them. The task of the universities was two-fold: The production of a great body of informed and thoughtful men and a small body of trained schools may not dispense with the professional schools have the university may dispense with the university may dispense with the university. The managing minds of the world must be equipped for a mastery whose chief characteristic is adaptability, play, initiative, which transcends the bounds of mere technical training. Technical schools whose training is not built upon the foundations of a broad and general discipline cannot impart this. The stuff they work upon must be prepared for them by processes which produce fiber and elasticity and their own methods must be shot through with the impulses of the university.

"Throughout long generations the thought of studious men had been bent upon devising methods by which special applitude could be developed, de-

Throughout long generations the thought of studious men had been bent upon devising methods by which special aptitude could be developed, detailed investigations carried forward, inquiry at once broadened and deepened to meet the specific needs of the age, knowledge extended and made various, and yet exact, by the minute and particular researches of men who devoted all the energies of their minds to a single task. Thus we have gained immensely in knowledge, but lost system, which must be regained. The processes of instruction, which fit a large body of young men to serve their generation with powers released and fit for great tasks, ought also to serve as the initial processes by which scholars and investigators are made.

"One way of preparing a young man for his life work is to give him the skill and special knowledge which shall make an excellent bread-winning tool of him. But the college should seek to make the men whom it receives something more than excellent servants of a trade or skilled practifioners of seek to make the men whom it receives something more than excellent servants of a trade or skilled practitioners of a profession. It should give them elasticity of faculty and breadth of vision so that they shall have a surplus of mind to expend, not upon their profession only, for its liberalisation and enlargement, but also upon the broader interests which lie about them, in the spheres in which they are not to be bread winners merely, but citizens, as well, and in their own hearts, where they are to grow to the stature of real nobility."

then, insert fresh ones in the binding containing the boards or covers made for their reception.

Another highly interesting phase of the work is the treatment of manuscripts that have suffered mildew. The color left on paper by mildew cannot be removed, this being about the only difficulty in the work of repairing manuscripts that the division workers have been unable to overcome. The sodden, murkey color left by mildew is sas fast, in fact, more so, than that of the strongest and most durable vegetable link or dye, and can no more be effaced than rust, or the effect of rust can be taken from iron.

Such being the case, the workers of the division have made the best of matters, and have done the next best thing in selecting the paper for the repair of a mildewed manuscript, as near the color of the original as possible, and right well have they succeeded. A mildewed manuscript, full of holes, is repaired with patches that are cut from paper of nearly the same color, and thus, when finished, the manuscript is harmonious, even in its defects, presenting nothing out of place, or disagreeable to the eye, as would be the case were the dark brown mildewed manuscript repaired with paper of a perfectly white color.

In the beginning Mr. Dolge endeavored to learn, by an elaborate system of book-keeping, the exact earnings of each individual in his employ, so as to get at the basis for a just distribution of earnings. The result was a conviction that a positive system which would benefit the employes individually and collectively would be more satisfactory in the end than any other. An experience of more than twenty years confirmed the wisdom of the manufacturer in providing such a system, the result having been the promotion of harmony between employer and employed, and the absolute elimination of labor troubles from Dolgeville.

I had been treating for several years for the cure of catarrh of the stomach and bowels further complicated by a severe ulceration of the same.

Skilled medical treatment, and afterward, recourse to most all the patent medicines on the market advertised as specifics for this disease, but without avail.

From being sent heavenward by the hope-inspiring write-ups of these medicines, upon trial I was plunged into the morass of despondency. I came to the conclusion after so many successful failures in seeking for relief, that I has some deep constitutional disorder that the physicians failed to detect and medicine to reach. So "being of little faith" and the various "faith and prayer cures they held out no encouragement to me, I thereupon decided to let things drift and let the disease wear itself out or wear out me as fate or circumstances might decide.

One day, picking up a local paper, I noticed your advertisement. I became interested and decided to try a bottle more on account of it being a California discovery and home preparation than any hope of lasting benefit. The effects of this medicine were immediate and startling. Startling the way the medicine got down to work forthwith and the great quantities of effect, worn-out matter it began to loosen, dislodge and carry away.

It seems to me today incredible that my system could have performed its functions, clogged as it was with such an amount of corruption, corrosive and interfering virus. From the day I began taking your medicine until today when I am a comparativelythoroughly cured man, your medicine has been as a curative agent, immediate in its action, unvarying in its effects and radical in its result.

Modern Methods Versus Ancient Methods.

Old-Fashioned Theories Exploded by Modern Scientific Practice--- Electro-Chemistry Cures "Incurable" Diseases.

The Electro-Chemic X-Ray Locates the Disease Accurately and the Powerful Electro-Chemic X-Ray and Current Positively and Painlessly Cure It.

All old-fashioned and oftentimes inadequate methods of treating chronic diseases have

All old-fashloned and oftentimes inadequate methods of treating chronic diseases have been superseded by a scientific and up-to-date one.

The time of guesswork diagnosis is past. The man or woman who is suffering from some disease, the nature of which he or she cannot determine, does one of two things. If they allow old methods to regulate their actions they go to the family physician. If they are wise they take advantage of all that science has to offer in the relief of sufferers and go to an institution where every scientific appliance for the proper diagnosis and cure of disease is at all times ready to the hands of the corps of specialists in charge.

The successful diagnosis and cure of all manner of chronic diseases is what the Electro-Chemic Institute claims to do. It substantiates these claims by, hundreds of testimonials from men and women who have been cured by its methods.

The successful attorney is the one who confines himself strictly to one branch of legal practice. The successful physician is the one who takes up the treatment of some individual disease and confines his life study and practice to that one disease.

The staff of the Electro-Chemic Institute is composed of men who as individuals have achieved success in the treatment of one chronic disease. Each of the principal diseases of mankind is treated at the Institute by a physician who has made a life study of its cause and cure. Add to this the wonderful curative powers of the Electro-Chemic X-Ray and current and the various apparati owned and used exclusively by this Institute, and you can readily understand why the Electro-Chemic Institute can cure you when others have failed.

Since the discovery of the Electro-Chemic X-Ray its wonderful power as a means of properly and accurately diagnosing disease has been acknowledged by the world's greatest physicians. It does not stop at diagnosing the disease, but with its wonderful therapeutic properties it cures the most painful cases in a brief time and in an absolutely painless manner. The

The Electro-Chemic Institute extends a cordial invitation to the public at large and the afflicted in particular to visit the Institute at any time and inspect its methods and apparatus, signed testimonials are on file in its office, which the public is at liberty to read. To those wishing further proof the names and addresses of the signers will be given that they may go to them in person and learn of the wonderful cures wrought at this great institution.

What Is Electro-Chemistry?

Electro-Chemistry is a combination of all that is best in the three great medical schools of Electricity, Homeopathy and Allopathy. It is Electricity combined with Chemistry in such a manner that the chemic properties necessary to the care of any disease are carded straight to the seat of the disease by the Electro-Chemic current. It is not a fad. It is accomplished school of medicine, and is in the front rank of the great curative agencies of the twentieth contury. The Electro-Chemic Institute was founded by men the have made a life study of electricity as applied to medical practice. The results they have accomplished is proof positive of their mastery of this workerful science. Fitted up as it is with complete Electro-Chemic and X-Ray apparati, it is the largest institution of its kind in the United States. The staff of the Electro-Chemic Institute have perfected special appliances for the application of the Electro-Chemic X-Ray and current in the treatment of Desthess, Catarrh, Consumption and the Diseases of Men and Women. These appliances are the property of this institute and are used by no other in this country.

ELECTRO-CHEMISTRY CURES Rheumatism promptly, painlessly and permanently. It scatters the disease germs and then, by scientific treatment, drives them from the system. The Electro-Chemic current solens and relaxes hardened and draws muscles and cartilages. The process is soothing to the painful member instead of irritating, as is the case with limitents and drugs.

ELECTRO-CHEMISTRY CURES Piles and Fistula without operations and in a perfectly painless and permanent manner. Only those who have undergone painful and dangerous operations for these diseases can thoroughlyappreciate the Electro-Chemic freatment.

ELECTRO-CHEMISTRY CURES Diseases of Women in a manner altogether different from any beretofore used. It does away with disgusting examinations and dangerous operations. we continued our way through the town to the office where I was to be employed. My senses told me at once that Port au Prince was no home of the library of the blend of offensive odors; and no wonder, for a gutter two feet deep ran at the side of the street too horrible to contemplate, and at every step we stumbled on garbage and vegetable refuse, while here and there were collected mounds of filth. I was told that these were the results of the Hayrian at them, when the streets had become quite impassable, the police would drive out some score of prisoners armed with brooms. They swept with energy under fear of the stick, but without any system. They swept the fifth into heaps, and their work was done, the heaps being left impartially in the middle of the roadway or at the sides.

"The richly-laden air of Port au Prince quickly told on me. I spent my days in the town, but my nights at a villa about half an hour's ride up the hilliside, where I kept house with three or four other young fellows engaged in business. In three weeks, what with the atmosphere and the welcome of the mosquitoes, I was sill of me 'ria; but once thus inoculated with the poison of the country, I was more or less exempt from malarial attacks."

The buildings, except the European stores, are of wood, and of these, with the generous aid of kerosene, revolutionists can easily raise a fine blaze, while the white foreigners are the only people who make any intelligent attempt at fire extinction. It was necessary to take precautions against pillage, for which incendiarism is but a preparation. The windows of our stores were closed with iron shutters, and they were barricaded, and then we were ready to lock the door. "But we had to keep the store open as long as possible to receive the valuables of customers for safe keeping. Negro women trooped in with elocks, finery, sliver, crockery, money—whatever they counted of most worth—in baskets, on trays, in bundles. They asked for no receipt—they completely trusted the blanc—and the baskets, trays and bundles were stored away merely with a scrap of paper attached bearing the name of the owner—Venus Aphrodite, Juno, Euphrosyne, or what not.

bearing the name of the owner—venus Aphrodite, Juno, Euphrosyne, or what not.

"While this business was going on the revolution began pouring down the street, and the women began to scream. The Governor and I dashed to the open door with our revolvers. Had the niggers seen the open door unguarded they would have rushed in to plunder, but seeing white men on guard they passed on without looking at us for a nigger will never attack a white unless he is at bay, or unless the white is not looking. It was an obscene spectacle that careered before us as we stood there. The niggers, armed with anything from a Haytian club to a Spanish knife, and drunk with rum and the rites of vaudoux—they never fight unless so primed—came tottering by, their bare feet padding softly in the filth of the street, their eyes rolling, and their mouths open and grunting "Hu! Hu!" or uttering more savage cries. When they had passed we thought it was time to shut up shop.

"I wished to stay with the Governor to see the fun, but he would not hear of it. He insisted that he did not need any help, and that the house I shared out on the hillside might be fired and pillaged if it were not adequately guarded. So I went and found one of my churs, and together we rode out to our house.

"I have seen Hippolyte praised, especially in French papers, as an amiable man and a statesman. He was really a savage, who cared for nothing but his own indulgence. His successor, however, was no better; and the story of how that successor won the chief place in the State is very characteristic of Haytian affairs.

"Of course, with the death of Hippolyte the chief purrose of the revolution had got fulfilled, but it sputtered about for a while, as if uncertain whether it should let itself die or not. "He went to his dinner; when he returned he found his seven years' salary voted.

"Some miles above Port Au Prince there is a fine Presidential chateau with extensive grounds called 'Mon Repos.' Tiresias Simon Sam suggested to his Parliament that he would like them to make him a present of the house and grounds, because he wanted a country seat. They had learned his little way, and they obediently voted. In a little while he presented his doctor's report, that 'Mon Repos' did not suit his health, and he prevailed on the Parliament to buy back their present at a high figure. When he had got the money, and the matter had become last year's history, he thought that he would like to try 'Mon Repos' again, and again he suggested it should be presented to him, and again—would you believe it?—it was.

"Thus Tiresias Simon Sam laid the foundations of his fortune, and thus, when he fied from Hayti in the May of this year, he arrived in Paris almost as well supplied as was Mr. Kruger. He is believed to have had some twelve million American dollars."

entered special courses of study in preparation for my present work. For sixteen years I have been proving my ability and building my success. I have mastered, first the simpler diseases, then the serious complex and stubborn ones that others neither cure nor comprehend. I have confined my efforts to diseases of men exclusively, and there is no allment belonging to this class that I cannot fully conquer. I make broad and definite claims. I tell men that I can cure them, even though others have failed. Jealous doctors have charged me with claiming too much. But, I ask, wherein have I failed to fulfill a promise? My practice is now fully twice that of any other specialist upon the Pacific Coast treating men's diseases. It has grown to these dimensions because I have made promises and fulfilled them. Each cure I have effected is a triumph and a manifestation of skill that has had its part in the making of my success. Each day new cures are completed, and my present growth of practice is more rapid than ever before.

Consultation is free. If you are afflicted, consult me. You can rely upon what I tell you, and if I accept your case you can rest assured that a complete and permanent cure will follow my treatment.

My diplomas from the most celebrated medical colleges and hospitals in the world, together with my license from the State of California, are banging in my office, where my patients may see and examine them.

All necessary X-Ray examinations are absolutely free to patients. My equipment for X-Ray work is the finest and most complete ever produced, and equally perfect results are not possible with an inferior apparatus.

All medicines are prepared from standardized drugs in my own private laboratory and are supplied to patients tree of cost.

Inability to come to my office for consultation and treatment need not deprive you of my services. My knowledge of men's diseases enables me to treat most cases with absolute success at e distance. Write, describing your symptoms in full, and I will advise you free of charge, and tell you whether y can cure you without your calling in person.

My colored chart should calling in person.

My colored chart should be in the possession of every men. It is interesting and instructive as a study and is helpful in making a home diagnosis. Sent free upon request, campment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Washington, D. C., were the special ambulances furnished under the direction of the War Department, to aid those of the city hospitals in caring for the sick or injured among the 40,000 veterans and others. The service provided by the army comprised acout tairty-five tents, giving accommodation at one time to 108 patients. To care for these patients there were detailed for service sixty hospital attendants placed under the charge of Maj. W. C. Borden, Capts. A. M. Smith, Joseph T. Clarke, Frederick P. Reynolds and J. R. Church. The hospital was provided with everything that the ingenuity of the army has devised for field treatment.

"Loo gow!' says he, which in Chris-city, recommended me to go to him and be treated. I took his advice, and went on July 18th, 1800. I took his treatment, followed his instructions etricity, and in a short time was cured. I am a heavy man of over 200 pounds, and a butcher by trade, which every one knows is heavy work and lifting, and wasn't deterred from my business one hour. I am now cured on the LEFT SIDE for over eighteen months, and had no more use for any eighteen months, and had no more use for any bandage of any kind, until about three weeks ago I met with another accident on the RIGHT SIDE. So it shows that the LEFT RIOH RIDE. So it shows that the LEFT RIDE, that was ruptured and cured, is stronger than was the right side. I went at once to Prof. Fandrey, took the second treatment for the RIGHT side, and I know that I will be cured the same as I was on the LEFT RIDE.

The method of curing is simple and nat-ural. After the first examination you can take the treatment at once and treat; your-self at home the same as I did. You don't need to delay in Los Angeles on account co the treatment. Therefore, Prof. Fandrey geles.

Now, through my own experience, I can say that Prof. Fundrey's treatment is the most natural and the safest of all. It is my duty to recommend to any RUPTURE SUPPERENCE as I was recommended and benefited the same of the sa fited through my neighbor.

This underwear sale is a yearly occurrence with us. It is not a premature happening launched ahead of time because some other house held a sale of the same sort last year, but an mual event that was first brought to your notice by this store five years ago. A movement that has been growing and broadening season after season until this fifth snnual sale of wind underwear will reach the very climax of modern merchandising. When we first conceived the idea of an annual underwear sale, this business was so small that we were forced to go jobbing houses and tell them our wants and our plans and get prices on case lots, and in some instances we had to buy half cases, but now it's different; we have outgrown the jobber a the middleman; we now go direct to the fountain head, the largest manufacturers in the land, and in some instances contract for the entire output of a factory. Here's a grouping thousands upon thousands of dollars' worth of all grades of underwear for men, women and children. Every garment underpriced. If you're interested in getting more underwear go ness for your money than it's ever been your good fortune to obtain, you'll become enthused over this underwear sale of ours. It's no half hearted, sluggish movement, but a planned, masterful stroke of merchandising eminently well suited to emphasize the leadership of this the fastest growing store on the Pacific Coast.

UNCANNY SEQUEL TO LIONEL JCHNSON'S DEATH

[Staff Correspondence of The Times.] ONDON, Oct. 7.-There was more than a touch of the uncanny about the death of Lionel Johnson, the the death of Lionel Johnson, the young writer of promise, who died in a London hospital last Saturday, after having been picked up unconscious in Fleet street a few days before. He is the latest to meet his death of those who have occupied a certain suite of rooms, which is said to be "haunted." The alleged ghostly happenings in these rooms made something of a sensation in London about a year ago. Doors were said to have opened and shut without visible assistance, and when the floor of the apartment most affected by the spirit was considered.

powered chalk, the prints of what seemed like a great claw were found, though a watch had been kept to make sure that no person or thing entered or left the room. Since Lio nel Johnson's death, it has been stated that some fatality or other has over-taken every other person who has lived in the chambers. The element of weirdness in Johnon's end is heightened by the cir-cumstance that he in a way foretold his own fate in a poem that did much to establish his position as a versifier. It was an ode to two friends of his, brothers, who fell in South Africa, and contained the lines: "You wait; I wait; a little while we wait.

"You wait; I wait; a little while we wait,
And then the wide flung gate."
Johnson, who was only 35, had a brilliant university career, and almost immediately on leaving took a considerable position by means of a remarkable book on "The Art of Thomas Hardy." His poems increased his reputation, and he was regarded as one way a profitable Irish industry could be established. Among the sons of the Emerald Isle to whom Moore addresses his plea is Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who, he says, "although he does not de-scribe Irish scenery or Irish character, is a member of the Irish Literary So-ciety, and has always regarded him-self as an Irishman."

FOURTH ANNUAL HALF-PRICE SALE: Our previous sales have equaled this one in price but never in magnitude. Our assortment of Oriental rugs and carpets is larger now than it ever was at the beginning of a half-price sale.

$25,000 Worth of Rugs

Must be sold in order to satisfy our desires and make a contemplated purchase possible. We have had advices from the Orient to the effect that a large and desirable shipment of Oriental rugs will arrive at the New York Custom House on or before December 15th, and we hope to purchase the entire shipment. We are the third largest buyers of Oriental rugs in America and neither of the larger buyers can purchase this shipment without overloading their stock. By quickly reducing our stock we will be in a position to take every one of the rugs and by buving the whole lot we can, of course, obtain great price concessions. Our buyer leaves for the East in about two weeks. This sale will last exactly two weeks, not one day longer. Those who buy rugs now at half-price will have reason to always remember Barker Brothers' half-price rug sale.

The California naturalist

Rosa Caroline Mackworth Praed, who prefers to be known by the name of her husband, Campbell Praed, is herself the daughter of a strange country—Australia—and it is but natural that her novels should deal with weird regions and mysterious influences. She was born in Queensland, Australia; her father, Thomas Lodge Murray Prior, being a leading citizen of that province, holding for many years the office of Postmaster-General. Since her marriage she has lived in London. She began her career as an author in 1880, with the novel "An Australian Heroine." Since then at intervals of rarely more than a year she has produced a score and more of novels, the chief of which are: "Nadine," "Zero," "The Brother of the Shadow," "The Romance of a Station," "The Scourge Stick" and "As a Watch in the Night." Her this year's book is "The Insane Root." Rosa Caroline Mackworth Praed, who

[New York Tribune:] Pixley Ka Isaka Seme, a Zulu of the royal blood from Natal, South Africa, will enter Columbia University next week and stay there for seven years when he thinks he will be fit to return to his native country and do missionary work in behalf of the Zulus. Mr. Seme is above the ordinary intelligence of the average freshman who enters the university, according to the statements of the authorities. He holds a scholarship in the university and expects to work his way through college, believing that it will be best for him to rely on his own resources and not depend on

Meyers, secretary of the Columbia faculty committee on employment for students:

"I feel that I had better write you a letter of introduction. I am a young man from South Africa, a Zuiu by birth. I am earning an education such as will help me, under God, to raise my own people. I have now a scholarship in Columbia College, but I feel that I cannot fully face my boarding expenses, and so I woud count it a special aid if you could get me a place where I can work for my board or part of it. I understand almost all general work, such as taking care of horses, furnaces, gardens and such like. Besides, I have waited on table, washed dishes and so on. I have done some copying and translating from English into Zulu, but I fear this is not possible to get here. I am not at all particular; the best you can do will satisfy me. I highly appreciate what has already been done for me."

M. Seme has been in this country for a fittle over four years and has been preparing to enter college at Mount Hermon, Mass., one of Dwight L. Moody's schools. He was undecided whether to go to Yale or Columbia, but at length determined that he would come to the local university because of the greater advantages for work which he would have in the city. He is going to earn his way through college for four years, and then enter the College of Physicians and Surgeons, so that at the end of seven years he may have the degrees of M.D. and A.B. Then he will make an effort to go abroad and get one of the Cecil Rhodes scholarships, so that he may get a British medical diploma, without which he cannot practice his profession in South Africa. When he has completed his education his sole alm in life is to return to his native country and teach and instruct his fellow-country-men, and better their condition so far as lies in his power.

JESSE HADLEY DISCOVERS MANY STRANGE THINGS IN A TRIP TO THE MOO

ANY years ago when Jesse Trumbull Hadley's father was young he invent-ed a flying machine and had it almost completed when he thought of something else. He put the flying machine away in the garret and soon forgot all about it, but little Jesse, who on rainy days played in the garret, used to crawl over the old rusty machinery so often that he soon came to know every part of it and when he was about 12 years old he heard so much about flying machines that he resolved to try to finish his father's work so that he, too, could go soaring over the houses and astonish the people of

It was no easy task to get the machine down into the yard, but he did it, and for days he tinkered with the rusty wires and plates and bars, but, try as hard as he could, he made no progress toward fitting it for flight. He didn't tell his father what he was doing, but experimented alone and studied books about all sorts of things meanwhile in order to learn what had already been dore in that dire tion. He learned an immense lot about chemistry, mechanics and such things, but he got little that would help him. In his daily experiments he used to try all sorts of queer things, sticking into the vacant spaces of the old machine every possible sort of object, just to see what would happen, and one day he placed in the space between two flat iron plates, in order to hold them apart, a thick piece of glass, upon one side of which had accidentally been stuck a sheet of sticky flypaper. Now, whether it was the glass or the flypaper, or both, that produced the astonishing result, I cannot say, but as soon as the glass had been placed in the machine it suddenly rose into the air with a slow motion and startled Jesse so that he grabbed at it and in trying to hold it down he pulled out the pane of glass.

The flying machine instantly fell to the ground with a thud, narrowly missing his toes. In a state of mind between astonishment and delight, Jesse inserted the glass again with the same result, and he only managed to get it out as the machine lifted him from the ground. It didn't fly, but just rose straight in the air, and after he had tested it a few times he became convinced that there was something in the glass or the flypaper that caused the Attraction of Gravitation to be abolished or suspended. You may know all about the Attraction of Gravitation, but for fear you do not, I will explain that it is something in the middle of the earth that makes everything draw toward that spot, and if there was a hole clear through the world like a well and you fell into it, you wouldn't fall past the middle of the earth, but just hang there in the centre of the well forever. Nobody knows what makes it do so, but it always does, and before Jesse fixed the flying nery nobody had ever been able to suspend its action the least mite. He knew at once what a wonderful thing he had done and was awfully tickled, but he determined to test it carefully before he told anybody about his discovery. He got into the car, for that was all there was to the machine, as the for that was all there was to the machine, as the balloon part for the gas had never been made, and when he was comfortably seated he placed the glass between the iron plates. Up went the rusty old contrivance like a rubber ball, so suddenly that it almost took his breath away, and in an instant he was as high as the steeple of the church. Then he became a little alarmed and drew out the glass, which caused the car to drop as quickly, but he managed to replace it about halfway and in time to prevent an awful bump, which would surely have wrecked the car and Jesse, also. A few such experiments gave him complete control of the power of Gravitation so that he could shoot up or down at will, but now, such an immense crowd of excited at will, but now, such an immense crowd of excited people had gathered in the street that he wanted to move away in order to avoid answering their questions. There was a little windmill affair at the back of the car, but it had not power enough to move it ahead an inch, and he wished that he had made a balloon before he had started off, as the wind was blowing nicely. Then he had another idea, and quickly descending in his own yard he ran into the house and got an umbrella. When he was high in the air again he opened the umbrella and, of course, he promptly sailed away over the city. All the people ran wildly under him, but the wind soon blew too fast for them and he left them far behind. Delighted with his success, he sailed along, rarely going higher than a mile or two, and enjoying the wonderful sensation without realizing how far he was from home and the impossibility of returning unless the wind changed. It was only when he saw that the earth below was in darkness that he came to his senses, for, of course, away up there the sun re was a little windmill affair at the back that the earth pelow was in darkness that he came to his senses, for, of course, away up there the sun was still shining. He promptly dropped to the ground and found himself at the gate of a big farm house, at the door of which he knocked. It was opened by a little girl, who said with a smile:

Saves Two Lives

"I am glad somebody's come at last, for I have waited here for hours. I was lost in the woods and came here to get some one to take me home." When Jesse told her that he didn't belong there, the little girl looked as if she were about to cry, and Jesse added: "I can take you home if the wind changes, but not to night. Is there anything to eat here?" She said that she had found lots of good things in the pantry, but she didn't want to take them without permission. Jesse didn't have any things in the pantry, but she didn't want to take them without permission. Jesse didn't have any such scruples, being a boy, and she ate with him. Nobody came and finally they both went to sleep on the sofa and slept soundly until morning. Then something waked Jesse and he listened intently, a little bit alarmed, and then he distinguished a weak voice calling for help. He ran out and soon dis-covered that the voice came from the well and he called down:

"Mr. and Mrs. Pillsbury," was the answer from the deep, dark hole. "Hurry and get help, for we have been here all night and are almost exhausted!" Jesse didn't wait to ask how Mr. and Mrs. Pillsbury came to be in the well, as some people would have done, but ran to his flying machine, dragged it to well and with the glass in his hand ready the well and with the glass in his hand ready to pop into its place he dropped down. He fell a little faster than he thought and bumped Mr. Pillsbury rather hard as he stopped, but as soon as they grabbed the bars of the car he shot up with them and landed them on the grass above before they could let go their grip. Mr. Pillsbury was so astonished that he just stared, but his wife fainted as soon as she was safe, just like a woman. Oh, but they were glad, however, and when Mrs. Pillsbury came to she got Jesse a breakfast that he never forgot. The farmer gave him a gold watch for saving his life, for he was very grateful, and when, after breakfast, Jesse and Jessica, for, strange to say, that was the little girl's name, started off, both the old man and his wife shed tears, for they were almost sure they would both have their little necks broken before the trip was finished, "Shall we go straight home or shall we explore the world a little?" Jesse asked when they were high in the air and Jessica had got used to the new sensation.

"I think that as it is very early, it would be wise to see some of the places they tell about in our geography," she replied, looking down through a hole in a cloud. "I see a big city over yonder and just beyond what looks like a big fair ground."

"Let's go to the fair and give them an exhibition!" cried Jesse, who now was anxious to show off his skill with his wonderful discovery. "That would be fun," Jessica said.

So Jesse tried to draw out the glass and descend at the Fair Grounds, but because of Jessica's added weight, or because of some unknown influence, he found that it wouldn't come out, no matter how hard be tugged at it, and all the time the car was shooting upward at a horrible rate of speed. Both were alarmed, and Jessica sobbed:

"I told you not to bring me up here! I wish I

Lands on the Moon

Now, Jesse would not contradict her and say that she had never said any such thing, for he was very gentlemanly, but he resolved never, never to take a girl out in an airship again. He was struc gling with all his might to pull out the glass plate and didn't notice that they were now miles and miles away from the earth, so far away that they could not see the cities at all, and it looked just like a map, with merely a difference between green or brown land and blue water. It was so cold, too, that Jessica's tears froze and fell like hail over the side and shot down like silver bullets. Soon he had to give up and blow on his hands to keep them warm. He began to see that they must surely freeze to death, but fortunately the tremendous speed of the machine as it went through the air caus come heated to such an extent that the air inside became like that on a summer afternoon, and they were soon quite comfortable. Soon the great earth looked like a big ball below, and then like a marble, and later like a pill. By and by it became so small that they had hard work to find it if they took their eves off of it for a moment, after which it totally nished, and then they began to whiz past stars with lightning speed, sometimes coming so close as to brush a stardust with their elbows. It was dark as a deep cellar now, because after one gets away from the atmosphere of the earth all is continual night in space, and it was exceedingly gloomy and uncomfortable for them. Once a big fiery comet chased them for many miles, and passed them with a hissing roar, so close that they could feel the heat from it, and they were almost swept into the mass of fire in its spreading tail.

After they had sailed along for hours, Jesse e another attempt to remove the glass plate, and, perhaps because the car was so hot, it slipped out as easy as winking. For a long time they couldn't tell which way they were going, but suddenly Jessica cried:

"Oh, look! there's the moon below us, and we are

Jesse looked over the edge and saw the moon, half illuminated by the sun, just beneath. He now realized that the moon had gone around the earth and come to this side since they started, and that therefore they were looking at the side of the moon that is continually turned away from the earth. He decided to land upon the planet and explore its mysteries, and thus become another Columbus. He had bardly made this decision when it became necessary to check their speed to prevent bumping the moon very hard, indeed. They landed on a sort of roundtopped hill and sprang out at once. Jessica had scarcely planted her feet upon the moon, when she cried in surprise:

"Oh, Jesse! It's green cheese! Who would have because there are no echoes here now. They were believed it?"

Jesse examined the moon carefully and was compelled to admit that it was certainly made of cheese, and green or fresh cheese at that, in spite of the fact that he had been many times assured to the contrary by people who pretended to know all about the moon. It was cheese, and good eatable cheese at that. The whole country as far as they could see all seemed to be made of it. There was nothing in sight else, and it seemed as though it was a deserted and uninhabitable land, if you can call cheese land.

"There's very little to see here, evidently," remarked Jessica, as she looked around in the queer sort of twilight that always exists on the other side, or dark part, of the moon.

"Perhaps we will discover something more interesting farther on," said Jesse. "We will leave the flying machine here in this hollow and take a walk." He took her hand, and they strolled along a valley for a long distance without seeing anything. but they both noticed at the end that the light seemed to flicker and snap, as it were, just as though invisible lightning flashes were passing through it. As they emerged from the valley they came upon a wide plain, over which several hundred dogs were chasing wildly and with wide-open jaws, as if in the act of barking, although no sounds could be heard. Every time they shut their jaws there was seen the funny flicker in the air, and Jesse felt that it must have something to do with their inaudible barking. Soon all of the dogs scurried away across the dimly lighted plain and vanished.

"I don't believe they were real at all! I think we just dreamed them!" said Jessica.

"Well, we can't dream foot-prints!" said Jesse, pointing to the tracks in the cheese at their feet. pointing to the tracks in the cheese at their feet.

Just then a door opened in the ground before them, a door made of cheese-rind, I suppose, and they saw a man looking out at them with a puzzled expression on his face. In describing him after-ward neither could agree as to exactly how he looked, and it's a curious fact that everybody de-scribes the man in the moon differently. No two people seem to see him exactly the same. This was creatures on his planet.

"Who are you and whence come you?" he asked, when he had got his breath. "I may as well ask you the same question?" re-

"Oh, everybody knows that I'm the Man!" he "Not the Old Man in the Moon?" cried Jesse.

"The same," he said with some dignity. "And now will you kindly inform me who and what you

Talks With the Man in the Moon

"We are also men and women-small ones," said Jesse. "They call us a boy and a girl on the earth."

The Man seemed startled. He asked nervously: "Why are you here? You are come to crowd me out, to push me to the wall, I suppose? 'No. indeed," said Jessica quickly; "we are just visitin' round and don't intend to stay. want to see the moon, that's all."

He smiled then and said:
"If that's all, you are welcome. So you are really from the earth! Well, they say I came from there myself, sent here for chopping wood on Sun-day, but I have no recollection of it." You must have been here a very long time, said Jesse, as he examined what was visible of the Man. He seemed like a great mass of dough that changed its shape constantly, yet always seemed to reamble a man. "Can you come out and walk along with us and show us the country?"

"I'll roll a little way with you," replied the Man, and he emerged from the hole completely and seemed more like dough than before. He had no arms or legs, but rolled along like a round lump of putty beside them, and at first Jessica was a little frightened. I say rolled, but his was rather a sort of spinning motion like a pudgy top, but he kept up with them easily, talking all the time.

When Jessica asked him about the dogs he said they were Moon-dogs, and were baying at the dogs on the earth, which they did every night. "Why, our dogs do the very same thing!" cried Jesse; "but ours make a noise!

"So do ours, but it's a noiseless noise, as it were," replied the Man, smiling. "The sound can't be heard, all swept away by a comet that passed too close to us thousands of years ago. That's why we all live undercheese now."

"What do you mean by 'undercheese?' asked "I see what he means!" exclaimed Jesse; "it's the same as we say 'underground.' See ?" "Exactly," said the Man. "Do all the people and things on the moon live derground?" she asked. "Yes. We rarely come outside, as there's nothing to see. We have holes out of which we look when we want to see what's going on on the earth, of course.' They had now come to a deep chasm that was so dark that Jesse could not see the bottom, and Jessica shrank back from its yawning blackness.

"Ah!" said the Man, walking close to the edge. The bridge has been pulled over on the other side. I'll stretch over and get it." Thereupon he just stretched himself across the gulf like a rubber band and then pulled himself back, drawing with him a shining network like silvered cobwebs that made a shimmering bridge for them to cross upon in safety.

"What on earth are you made of?" asked the surised lad, as the Man performed this feat.

"Being on Moon and not on earth, I am, of course, made of cheese," the Man answered.
"Oh, I see how it is! He's just like a Welsh rabbit when it's cold!" cried Jessica; "sort o' elastic and rubbery. Isn't it funny?"

Meets Some Strange People

They crossed the web-bridge and went down a They crossed the web-bridge and went down a descent, soon coming to a great cave. Jessica was somewhat timid about following their lumpy guide into its interior, but Jesse took her hand and she felt a little bolder. However, once within it didn't seem dark, for a soft tender light oozed from the walls, and everything was quite visible. But they were both astonished to see the Man walk right up "But we aren't flies?" cried Jessica; "we can't walk up a wall."

"Try it an ! see. You can't walk any farther on the floor, anynow."

Jesse walked to the side wall, and to his surprise went right up like a spider, and his com-panion followed, with no trouble at all. Then they went along the roof upside down, and it was so funny that Jessica laughed aloud. "It's very queer!" said Jesse, "that the things in my pockets don't fall right out, isn't it?" "Tisn't funny at all!" said the Mon "Things"

"Tisn't funny at all!" said the Man. "This isn't the roof of the cave at all. It's the floor. There's no roof. All opposite is hollow emptiness clear to the other side of the moon. That's the way it's made.

So they, seeing nothing across the cave, soon came to see that they were walking properly, and the sensation of moving upside down passed away. Then they came to a wide floor where pale white toad-stools stood all about, and the Man chuckled as he looked at them.

wed at them.
"Why do you snicker?" asked Jesse.
"At these foolish Moon people. I call 'em 'peo,' and so would you, I s'pose, as they look like you, but you must understand they aren't men."
"I should say not!" cried Jessica; "they are only toadstools, that's all!"

"That's because you are looking right at them," said the Man. "They can't stand it. If you want to see what they look like just turn around and stand still for a few moments. They'll soon take their own shape again."

"How exceedingly strange." "How exceedingly strange!" whispered Jessica, holding Jesse's hand very tightly, but instantly turn-ing sharp around. Jesse did the same. After a moment the Man whispered. "Now!

Wheel right around quick and catch 'em!"

They turned like lightning, and to their amazement saw hundreds of the dearest little figures all attired in shining dresses, staring at them curiously. It was several seconds before they all transformed emselves into toadstools again.
"What are they afraid of?" asked Jesse. "We

"I don't really know," said the Man. "They've

"Why, didn't you see! They are the fa once lived on the earth until the people teach the children that there were no and then, naturally, they got mad and left up, or I chould say, sliding down, to the greased moonbeams. They seem to have fun here and don't regret leaving the earth.

"You'll see them no more not as anyway!" said the Man; "for they'll take a form and fool you!"

"It would be just lovely," said Jessies fully, "to be good friends with them."

Not a bit of it! They never do any ful, and are always playing silly pranks other and on me, too, which is shameful, the Man. "Come along and forget them."

Effective Work of the Employers' Organization at Dayton, Ohio.

MECAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE THEMALY NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—If John Mitchell, the strike leader, was bluffing when he originally went to Washington, and said he would leave the whote matter of the coal strike to arbitration by the President, he was "called" by the operators, represented by J. P. Morgan, who went to Mr. Roosevelt a little later and themselves offered to arbitrate in a little different way. I cannot see that the recognition of the union is involved, though of course it may be. One or two of the arbitrators, whose affiliations or ideas we have been made somewhat familiar with aiready, would possibly two this. On the other hand, just as many others apparently would not. And any others apparently would not. And a for one of the real mediators, Columbia. D. Wright, it is well known in the recommendation made by him easily, after a thorough examination of the affairs in the coal fields, was to be effect that a separate union should earnanced for the anthractic miners. It was so difficult, and perhaps import, to secure the recognition of an inide union made up of bituminous laters.

But as it is, Mitchell ought to feel seetty well satisfied. It is well known that he was opposed to the strike originally, though it must be said that he has carried it through as shrewdly and loyally as could be expected by his followers. You have heard much of his "cabinet." Nichols, Duffy, and Fahey, whom he usually took around with him everywhere to participate in his various conferences, and when, as at the public meeting in Bostoon, the real strike leader couldn't be present, a couple of litchell for some time, in fact, they have been after the miners' union of the anthracite field for many years. Baer insists that he will "get" him, meaning Mitchell, and there is some reason to believe that he will.

The leadership of a strike organization seems of necessity to be shortlited. There was the case of Martin litons, then of Debs, and then of Shafist, who have all gone the same way; that is, up, like a rocket and down like a stick. Mitchell seems to be abler than any of these, sober, shrewd, farseing. Whether he will be contented to to follow somewhat the example a samuel Gompers and maintain his leadership more by seeming to lead than by really leading, or whether he all continue to use all possible efforts to spread the bituminous miners' union that in the anthracite region, is of surse a question. One thing you may evertain of—just al certain as you have been the ability of George F. Baer.
The Reading Railroad took him up reginally because, as a lawyer, up in the coal regions somewhere, he had he did. It is probable, however, that he expected results from his first meeting, and simply kept busy trying to bring the operators to terms, as one or more of the next steps that he must take to bring victory out of apparent defeat. He gets the credit now of having stayed the whole controversy, because first one party to it and then the other came practically to his terms, and he has started mining up again, and that is what the people wanted. Of course Mitchell knew after the operators had made their proposition and public sentiment veered around so that it favored them, that he and his miners must yield or lose entirely.

public sentiment veered around so that it favored them, that he and his miners must yield or lose entirely.

It is wonderful, the way a body of a hundred and fifty thousand miners will follow the lead of one man, and equally marvelous is it how the unions throughout the country contribute to the cause of the strikers. The general arbitration scheme, being wrong in principle, because it almost invariably splits the difference, and equally does not bring the right out — it for either side, has been pretty generally done away with. Also for similar reasons—because it has public sentiment against it—the sympathetic strike is done for, but the fellow-unionists of a thousand or a hundred thousand strikers may yet express their sympathy very tangibly by subscribing their money, and they have picnics, benefits of various kinds, and assessments and collections throughout the shops, which the coln in sum of hundreds of thousands of dollars rolls into the treasury of the strikers. It is said, and evidently with good authority, that lately an average sum of $25,000 a day was received by Secretary Wilson of the Mine Workers' Union at Indianapolis, and that this was only a third of his total receipts. Of course this work of collecting money goes on under the very same noses of employers everywhere. They do not like it, but there is nothing that they can do about it. There is this, however, that they are likely to do about it before long, manufacturers, employers, and with them a good many who simply have an interest in perpetuating the right to hold private property, and that is that they are organizing among themselves, not to try to beat organized labor, which has come to stay, but to beat out of it the lawless leaders and the general lawlessness.

One proposition would be that labor unions should be incorporated. Or ourse, they resist this. Gompers, Mitchell, and the others, have always insisted that it should not be, and in so far as incorporation would fix responsibility upon them—in reference to injuries to property or and while I believe the final appeal to the highest court has not been had in this case, the property of every member of that union is tied up, subject to a possible judgment, and altogether the unionlists who had conspired, or were proposing to conspire, to ruin the employer's business, simply because he would not submit to their demands, were pretty nearly on the run.

It practically resolves itself into this, that the question must be decided, and perhaps before long, whether the employer is to run his own business, or whether the employed shall run it. If the latter, then that seems to point to cooperation, which would mean, in reality, or at least in most cases, the dissolution of the business, and beyond that, socialism. This, in fact, is the belief of a great many sober-minded people hereabouts, and since human nature is pretty much the same the country over, it is also the feeling in certain quarters throughout the country. Of course, everybody with sense acknowledges that the labor unions are here to stay, and they are rather glad of it, but with all that their demands must be reasonable, and their acts lawful; northing like dynamiting and murder will so; nor is it to be assumed that learislation of a special kind, which would transgress the rights of others, as, for instance, their property rights and their freedom of conjract, would ever go.

Privilege of Wealth.

Apropos of the passing of the straw hat. Senator Stewart of Nevada once made a remark that throws an interesting sidelight on the question of winter headgear for men. He and a newspaper friend were walking down Pennsylvania avenue during last Christmas week. The Senator's head was capped by the excuisite creation of Panama build that has come to be a familiar, sight on the streets of Washington. The hat's cost ranged into the three-figure grade of dollars, and the Panama looked every inch of it. But it was in midwinter, with snow on the ground, and a thermometer well down the scale. It was the only straw in active use in town.

"A straw is the only hat that is comfortable." quoth the friend, "and if I could, I'd wear one the year around. If I had one like yours, Senator, I'd wear it winter and summer."

"You couldn't afford to wear it now,"

I had one like yours, Senator, I'd wear it winter and summer."
"You couldn't afford to wear it now," replied the Senator.
"Why not?"
"Because if anybody sut myself wore this hat in winter, he'd be stamped as too poor to ret another."—[Washington Post

Persons who have devoted much thought to this matter feel that it will be difficult to educate the present race of footmen to the proper use of hair powder. But as the immigration laws would prevent the wholesale importa-tion of properly-trained English footmen, it is hard to see what can be done about it except get along as well as possible with such material as there is, putting Jeems at dress rehearsals at

The powder is not only hard to put on and keep on, but it does not feel comfortable when it is there. Also, there is no particular merit in looking exactly like the next man as long as you are respectable and have no object in concealing your identity. Thirdly, and lastly, the maids do not approve of it. "A narsty mess" was the deliberate opinion of mixed hair powder and pomade, as given after a conference of cooks and housemaids in Sixth avenue near Fiftleth street. In other closely related professions there are alarm and dislike already. When you start a thing like this where are you going to stop?

There's the chauffeurs. If it is fashionable to have your coachman bewigged, why not the man in the automobile?
His present appearance in goggles, a leather coat and flat black cap can certainly be improved, if he would only believe it; but he won't. He would certainly look better in a white, curly wig and, say, a three-cornered chapeau of the Washington era, with a becoming fringe of embroidery around it.

It might be difficult to keep such bear's grease for their footmen, even to the fourth man.

A great many folks whose pictures are painted very often with the explanation that they are society leaders nation that they are society leaders would doubtless go in for the new fad, if it stopped at the wigs. They are picturesque, and it is easy to prevent them from blowing off by fastening them to the ears with white elastic bands, which at a distance are aimost invisible.

The only thing about them that is objectionable. In fact, is that they are warm to wear, and as winter is coming on and a fashion rarely lasts six months, anyway, this is not serious. Besides, the coachmen are out of doors all the time when in full regalla.

The trouble is with the powder. If it is not properly mixed with the powder and the outer dressing of white well rubbed in, it is likely to shake off, and American footmen are not used to mixing hair plaster. Red Tag Sale 15, 25 and 33 Per Cent. Saved.

We intend to move every piece of furniture in this house previous to the arrival of our holiday stock. We intend to hold these sales annually and make them the talk of the town. Reductions from 15 per cent to 35 per cent from our regular prices, which are always the lowest, will bring that result.

Not simply an article here and there, but every last piece of furniture in the whole grand gathering gets a new price—none less than 15 per cent, most of them 25 per cent, many a full third under regular. The white tags show what prices have been up to today; the red tags tell the prices for this week-and there's a beautiful souvenir for every customer whether the purchase be large or small. .

Bright, new and thoroughly dependable furniture for every room in the house. Everything marked in plain figures; everything now with a red tag price, and you can have anything reserved till Rheumatism is caused by an excess of uric acid in the system.

Uric acid prevails in all the liquids of the body and when it becomes excessive the urates gather about the joints and come in contact with the nerves, causing rheumatic pains. These pains continue until the urates are dissolved and eliminated from the body, and this must be done before rheumatism can be cured and a medicine to do this must disse urates and remove them.

Such a medicine is

SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 26, 1902. SLASHED TWO STABLEMEN.

George Edelman Used a Knife to Because several days ago he had been accused of theft, George Edelman filled up with bad whisky last night, and going to the livery stable at Tenth and Flower streets made a desperate effort to murder Henry Davanceus, foreman of the stable, with a knife. When N. N. Kramer, the proprietor, appeared, he was also assaulted and severely cut. Edelman was employed at the stable until last Wednesday and occupied the same room as the foreman. On that day he had a quarrel with the foreman, the latter having jost $15, and he intimated that Edelman had stolen it. Edelman departed, swearing that he would get even with his accuser and denying that he knew what had become of the money.

would get even with his accuser and denying that he knew what had become of the money.

Last night he returned to the stable and, according to the foreman's statement, began abusing him. Then, without warning, he is said to have drawn a pocket knife, with which he slashed Davanceus under the left arm, inficting a wound in which it was necessary to take five stitches. Kramer appeared about this time and while trying to take the part of his foreman, received a long knife wound in the leg and another in the back under the right shoulder blade. Kramer and Davanceus then jumped on Ediman and when they got through with him he looked like he had been doing business with a bugg-saw. His face was a mass of bruises. While the fight was going on Patrolmen Burch and White happened to pass the place on a car. They jumped off, separated the combatants and took all of them to the Police Station. When the matter was explained to the officers Davanceus and Kramer were released, but a charge of felony was placed against Edelman.

Los Angeles is rapidly becoming the Mecca of the unemployed, and the 5000 jobs held out this morning for anybody that will work in the seven counties south of the Tehachepi, or will go to the surrouning country, shows conclusively that the condition of labor was never so happy in Callfornia as now.

dancers to go on for the stunt; but the hula girl's husband-kicked, and the Mohammedan bride, a St. Louis girl, finally consented to be married for the last time.

The trapese performers went to the Orpheum, or somewhere, and the camels looked so rickety that the shivering crowd refused to take chances on such violent exercise. Finally, people went home, and the fog drove the hula dancers and the rest into the tents.

The managers of the show say they hope for better business next week, but are not very sanguine of protracting the present misery, if the race meet and Sousa and other attractions combine with the cold weather to keep the crowd elsewhere. lars, and the beinous defrauding of an honest and trusting old heart.

Confidence Men Take in the Country Visitors.

[New York Herald:] Chicago confidence men have evolved a new and surprisingly successful game whereby to beguile the coy and agile dollar from the pockets of the credulous gentry from the country who are oil the lookout for bargains the while they see the sights of the city.

It is artistic and charmingly simple.
It is no less than the confidential offering for sale at greatly reduced prices the Auditorium! Any large and sufficiently impressive building will do —the Masonic Temple, the Rookery, or any old cliff dwelling of similar proportions—but the Auditorium is the favorite in the running.

Reuben comes to town and brings with him, along with a boiled shirt
"which mother has done up" that very moraing before daylight, a widespread and unplumbed ignorance of real extate values per front foot.

Naturally therefore, he is surprised, but pleased when his new friend, the clerical-looking gentleman with a benign air of kindliness toward the whole universe in general and Reuben in particular, takes him aside and unfolds a beautiful scheme whereby to get rich while you wait.

The Auditorium has been grossly mismanaged and is about to be sold under the hammer. That is unless it is bid in by private parties. He casually mentions $5000 as a bargaincounter price, that if paid down—or ters. Mrs. Dr. Robeson and Miss Hazel, arrived from Chicago yesterday in a private car and will spend a few days in Los Angeles with his brother-in-law, R. T. Perry of the California Development Company. Mr. Harper has been a prominent figure in Board of Trade and grain-storage circles in Chicago for many years. This is his first visit to the Coast, and he is highly enthusiastic over the beauties of Los Angeles and the charm of its climate.

He comes to California at this time to meet his son, Lieut. Roy B. Harper, who is returning after a service of two years in China and the Philippines as alde upon the staff of Gen. A. R. Chaffee, in command of the American forces. Gen. Chaffee and his staff will reach San Francisco on the transport Summer about the 29th inst. Mr. Harper will go north to meet them, accompanied by A. H. Heber, president of the California Development Company, and Mr. Perry.

Judge and Mrs. W. H. Morris enter-Sorority Afternoon.

The Alpha Phi Psi Soolty held its regular meeting at the home of Miss Marie Widney, No. 2712 Menlo avenue, yesterday afternoon. The house was beautifully decorated in red and gold, the sorority colors. After a short business meeting, the afternoon was devoted to progressive games, the first prize being awarded to Cella Norton, and the consolation to Isabel Sylva. Dainty refreshments were served in the dining-room under a canopy of Halloween decorations, the same scheme being carried out on the place cards. The members present to enjoy Miss Widney's hospitality were Misses Emilita Abbott, Blanche McCormack, Effe Steinart, Bana Rolfe, Este Smist, Augusta Yuber, Cella Norton, Mabel Patterson, Bess Austermell, Helen Rosenthal.

the guest of Mrs. L. F. Hinsdale.
They were entertained at dinner last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Drake Ruddy, and afterward were the guests of honor at an informal reception given by Mr. and Mrs. E. W.
Glimore on Ocean View. Other guests were members of the California Badgers' Club and their husbands and Wisconsin men living in the city and their wives.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.

Troop D will give a ball Halloween night at Armory Hall for the benefit of Trooper F. J. Oden, who has been ill in the hospital for several months with typhold pneumonia. The troop members are sparing no effort to make the affair a success. Programme and decorations are to be out of the ordinary, and the best of music has been selected.

come Here Often ad we congratulate ourselves that we foresaw this condition with accuracy and a pleaty of time to get together a larger but at the same time a much more exputive showing than we have ever before assembled. Today we actually have a stock more than 150 styles of lace robes, and to give an adequate conception them in an advertisement is entirely out of the question. You must see them,

In that way you will learn to associate worthiness with economy, beauty with utility, newness with correctness. It is our constant study to combine these elements so as to win your continued approval.

New Drapery Display.

The immense collection of goods in the Drapery department is the result of intelligent attention and careful buying. When you visit it you will see what we mean—will see how different the display is from one which is a mere jumble of items picked up at random. The draperies now have considerably more room than formerly, which gives ample show spaces as there is plenty of outside light, you can judge of effects to a nicety.

Special attention is given to net curtains made to order, trimmed with broad hems or with lace and inserting.

HOW THE TIMES TREATS LABOR.

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES regularly pays to its skilled, reliable and acrames wages that average from $3.75 to $4.50 per day for time t, and from 84 to $5.50 per day for piece work. These rates are higher count between August, 1890, and the end of September, 1901, aggregated 2007,200.51, and its annual expenditures for labor of all classes, both skilled skilled, now average more than $175,000 per year. There never has been any attempt, in any quarter, to deny these specific and telling facts, and the proprietors challenge such denial if made. Not for years has The loyal to their employers and themselves, well satisfied and prosperous. The controls its own business in its own way, subject only to the laws of the land; and no interference with that control can be lawfully or justly made. The result of its fixed policy has proven highly beneficial to all concerned, and the justness and correctness of its course have for years past re-ceived public approval in most marked and conspicuous ways, the circulation and advertising patronage of the paper steadily and largely outstripping that of all local rivals.

Charity workers are agreed that, among all the serious problems of belated humanity that constantly confront them, none is more difficult than that presented by the children of paupers—those little human weeds that are too often festered in every community. too often fostered in every community by rank and noxious parents. A "pau-per" is defined as a "poor person." The poor we have with us always, and they are either deserving or undeserv-ing. If they are undeserving, they are essentially paupers. This is a distinc-tion of recent years, perhaps, but it has come about through the false pleas and chicanery of professional

All poor people are not paupers; all paupers are not poor people.

There are infinite circumstances of Ill-health and misfortune that give the deserving poor a righteous claim upon their own community for aid in times of stress. No odium can attach to the pauper in such cases. All odium and condemnation should attach to the pro-fessional poor. To help the latter is to hurt them; to help the former is to do them good.

But the greatest concern in the world should be felt for the unfortunate chilshould be feit for the unfortunate chil-dren of either class. They may easily become the professional paupers of the future. Their training—their atmos-phere—fits them for lasiness. From their parents they readily get the false idea that the world owes them a liv-ling. Independence has never developed in them any pride. They start out in life without the edge of husbandry. Thus it is that they become the dull Thus it is that they become the dull but dangerous tools of designing par-ents or petty criminals.

From pauperism to crime is an easy step; for most children it is almost ir-

Associated Charities there is an abuse of the rights of poor children in vogue in all the cities of California that would justify the passage of a State law. These charity workers call atten-tion to the fact that every day children are sent by thoughtless, or worse than thoughtless, parents to public and private institutions begging for alms. Numerous notes are presented daily to the Associated Charities in Los Angeles by children who tearfully request that "mame be given a few frequently do some people send their children to such places that the little ones become better known than their shameless parents, while the tota themselves soon get to making brazen

Now, it is urged, a law should be passed prohibiting a child from visit-ing any place to solicit charity, and making it a penal offense on the part of the parent to send a child out on such a mission. There is need, therefore, of legislation that will protect innocent children against the wiles of lazy or dishonor-able parents and give them more of a chance to become honest citizens by preserving instead of destroying their self-respect and sparing them needless humiliation. "How are looking; are you ill?" Or, "How stout you have grown since I saw you last;" or, "How thin you are; what is the matter?" When this sort of thing is kept up persistently it is easy to make a well person ill, and to reduce the robust figure to the proportions of a living skeleton.

It is quite as easy to say pleasing things to one's friends—things that will make them feel satisfied with life and hemselves-as it is to utter a remark that will make them miserable. It is juite as pleasant, indeed, for the per-tion who says gracious things, once he rets in the habit of saying them, as it tended. One need not be hypocritical n these matters; if the friend or ac-quaintance is not looking well his or her appearance should be ignored, but if they are appearing especially chip-per and gay it will do no harm, but lots of good to both parties, to say as

We ought to shine and as little of cloud as is pos-sible in this world, which has much more cloud in it than is good for peo-ple. We ought to help our neighbor with kind words from day to day, in-stead of waiting until his house is on fire and then rushing across the street to throw the dishes and mirrors out of the windows and to let the mattresses and bedelothes out to the ground with a rope. That picturesque and sartorically ornate and flamboyant statesman, J. Ham Lewis, formerly of the State of Washington, has broken into the Illimois Democratic pasture and is about to enter the running for Congress in lieu of a candidate for the House of Representatives who was once arrested for forgery and a few other crimes. It is but truth to state that Congress has never been quite the same old place since J. Ham removed his flaming neckties and gaudy waist-coats from the arena below the Speaker's chair. He gave to the House just that dash of color which makes any sort of a picture smite the eye with telling effect. But J. Ham wasn't all clothes in the salad days when he was on deck. He has a picture-que wocabulary as well. When he rears up on end and the baseo of him starts up in a tooting wall we all open our ears and listen with interest. When he parades among the desks decorated with all kinds of statesmen, from the fine-fibered Republicans to coarser-grained Democrats and Populists, there is much doing in the way of fireworks, and the output of hot air is immense. We shall be gally glad to lists, there is much doing in the way of fireworks, and the output of hot air is immense. We shall be gaily glad to see Ham trying to get back on the floor again. But it will not amount to much more than a try, after all, if the voters of Illinois, or the particular district in which he will stand for election have any conception of which side tion, have any conception of which side their bread is buttered on. This isn't a J. Ham year.

According to the report of Com-Land Office there is already near, $80,000,000 available for the purpose of national irrigation. There ought to be many roses blooming soon upon what are now desert wastes, in this fair but arid land of ours. And when those deserts do begin to blossom we shall see an expansion of happy homes that will make the heart glad. The sum of money now available means the com-mencement of one of the greatest immencement of one of the greatest improvements ever undertaken in America, or in all the world. It is an end that this newspaper has striven for in scason, and out of season. But it paid to strive, as it always does for right ends. The glory of the republic will be greater than ever before when the national government has set the fructifying streams flowing upon wastes that have been such during all the ages. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Demonstrations by an Expert

Madem Heintzelman, of New York, the designer of the celebrated Sapphire Corset who has been giving demonstrations in the Corset Department has arranged to remain over Monday.

She is showing some of the most extreme ideas in corsets—new models which have not previously been shown here.

We carry more than 200 models in the three famous lines

Sapphire, Bon Ton, Royal Worcester Corsets

And from them Madam Heintzelman is able to select a model that will materially improve your figure and add to your comfort,

The present mode in gowns demands a carefully fitted corset and Madem Hein'zelman's suggestions during the last few days have proven of incalculable value to the many women who have consulted her. This expert's assistance is at your disposal entirely free of charge and we would be very pleased to have you visit the Corset Department while she is here.

MAII WHO COULD TELL HORSE'S SEX BY THE EARS.

When the Secret of His Success Was evealed, His Victim Put Up a Little Game on Him Which Turned the Tables Very Effectually.

[New York Sun:] "Did you ever tnow," inquired the fat man, "that you an distinguish the sex of a horse by looking at its ears?"

The fat man and his friend were re-turning from the race track sfter a profitable day with the bookmakers. They felt well and smoked costly ci-gars.

wars.

"Are you trying to get information from me?" asked the friend, who was a lawyer, "or are you looking for a bet?"

"I am asking for information." said the fat man. "I have lost a good many bets lately by taking the wrong end of it and I am looking to find out why."

"Well, I'll tell you why," said the lawyer. "It's because you have been fool enough to bet the other man was wrong in case he said the horse whose sars he pointed out was a male."

"That's right, come to think of it," said the fat man. "But why is it I lose?"

lose?" "Because," said the lawyer, "the percentage of mares in the streets is just about one in six, and if a man goes around betting that every horse he seer is a male, you can figure what chance he's got to lose, can't you? Certainly you can; he has one chance in six to lose and that's exactly what chance you have to win if you take the other end of the bet.
"Now, while I think of it, hearken to me and I will unwind you quite a coniderable tale having for its main theme the distinguishing of the sex of horses by their ears. It runs about as follows:

horses by their ears. It runs about follows:
Down at Gravesend there resides a ry good friend of mine who trains to good friend the resides a ry good friend of mine who trains a name is Carpenter. One day I mit down to call on him with my other-in-law a doctor, from Chicago. On the way my brother-in-law menned that Carpenter could tell a rese from a mare thrity feet away by king at its ears, and went on to deribe how many hats, neckties, canes, abalis, cigars and lunches he had m from him on the strength of it. I began to laugh, and when I got rough explaining to him the percente of marse as against horses he was id for revenge, and then and there I comised he should have it good and mity.

pooled was worth the price of admission alone.

"Then Carpenter began to browbeat me the way he does everybody that doesn't agree with him.

"Why, you, Polock," he said to me, what do you know about horsest Horses! Why, I was in the contracting business, building horses, before you could get your toe in your month. I can tell a mare from a horse thirty feet away, and I have large moneys that talk the same as I do.
"I laughed at him, and he got worse, and after doing everything but pass each other the black tys, we agreed to drive to Sheepshead the following Sunday and decide the thing according to the plugs we met along the Neck road, at fifty good dollars per plug.
"Well, Sunday came around, and we started. At 2 o'clock we awung into the Neck road. Right ahead of us there was a horse hitched to a hollow-chested ransbout, standing. In the runsbout was a fat man looking into a vacant lot."

was a fat man looking into a vacant loot.

"Here you are,' said I to Carpenter,' Get in and do your worst.'

"I kept my eye on him as he screwed up his popt lamp and sighted with the other. The bluff he threw was perfectly grand. We were by this time about thirty feot from the other rig. and Carpenter pulled up.

"It's a horse,' said he.

"A mare for mine," said I.

"We drove up close, and the fat man said 'Howdy.'

"Howdy,' says Carpenter. 'Nice little horse you've got there.'

"Yes, said the fat man, 'she's about as nice a filly as I've seen around here. If I do say it.'

"Yes, she's all right,' said the old man.

"Then he clucked to our old gray and we passed on. The 'filly' settled it.

"That's fifty I owe you,' he remarked.

"A little further on we came to a menty stylish article, laced to a pneumenty stylish article, laced to a speumenty stylish article, laced swith the same styling cases which way to skeletons.

consumption—its cure and prevention—a life study. This cure is something entirely new and is called "Antidotum Tuberculose," or the know of that absolutely kills all tuberculosis serms, which cause consumption, as unless this is done, the disease cannot be cured. As the same of the remedy tells, its chief ingrellent is copper, which metal has at last best found to be the deadly enemy of the consumption germ. "Antidetum Tuberculose" is the original copper cure.

Tou can tell if you have consumption by the coughing and hawking, by continually-spitting, especially in the morning, when you throw yellow and black matter, by bleeding from the lungs, night sweats, flat chest, fever, weak voice, peculiar fushed completion, pain in the chest, wasting away of the fiest, etc. Find out how the Copper Cure kills the germs, then builds up the lungs, strengthens the heart, paiss fless; on the body and muccles on the body and muccles on the body and proper cure will be germs, then builds up the lungs, strengthens the heart, paiss fless; on the body and muccles on the body and proper cure will be germs, then builds up the lungs, strengthens the heart, paiss fless; on the long and you are and you are an a strong. healthy robust man or woman.

Don't doubt this, for the very same discovery benefited A. H. Dingley, a son of Congressman Dingley of Dingley Tariff Bill fame, who sent West and South for relief and didn't get fl, and came back with death starting him in the face, and was buseffied by Antidotum Tuberculose after all else failed, it cured John the face, and was buseffied by Antidotum Tuberculose after all else failed, it cured John the face, and many cases which wasted away to skeletons.

So don't give up hope, and don't spend your money in tavel. Attend to it right away, for

They all calle up and the old man shook hands. He looked as if he would rather be shot.

"We went inside at 3 o'clock and got out at 9. I had to pry the fat man out of his chair with a billiard cue. The bill was eighty-five cold.

"The old man paid it without a word, and the only thing I have ever heard out of him about the affair from that day to this was that if he ever got to be as good a judge of yearlings as I was of good, hard, painstaking drinker, he would seem every stake on the metropolitan calendar for three years to come."

"It that all?" inquired the fat man. "I should think that would be about all," replied the lawyer.

Just why you de your buying at any particular store? Did'you ever think of this house or that, and realize that some of them you never enter? There are many stores in Los Angeles. You patronize some of them, and some you do not. One of the best reasons you can give for this is that you can get what you want cheaper at one place than you can at another, and naturally you like to go there to do your shopping. For a long time we have enjoyed the reputation of keeping first-class goods. It is a reputation we hope to retain, and we mark our prices close. Our margins are small, but we can afford to make them small if we have the support of the people. It is a fair exchangewe give you good goods for your money, you give us good money for our goods.

Beautiful Del Rey Homes.

Mr. K K. Cutter of homes that will be erected this winter at Pays Del Ray-these sketches show exactly the kind of improveats that are to be made at this resort. Every building that is silt will be in harmony with the central idea on which the plans the Beach Land Co are based. Plans are already under way a score or more of beautiful places like these pictured in this vertisement. Would not a lot with such surroundings be a good resiment? Would not a home with such neighbors be a desirble place to live? And what beach on the Pacific Coast offers such ents outside of Del Rey? Answer the question for

Picturesque and Artistic Effects

Del Rey is the ideal spot for the landscape artist who plans big things. The grand Lagoon with the towering bluffs overlooking Mountain, Valley and sea for almost countless miles, offers possibilities that have never been dreamed of in the upbuilding of Pacific Coast resorts. The day of sand lot discomforts has gone by. graded and graveled streets, flowers and shrubs, beautiful roadways and lovely homes with all the comforts and luxuries of civilization have come to displace what might be termed mere camps. Dei Rey Beach will be the first and only resort the entire coast length that will command the admiration of travelers and tourists from every part of the world, and it is this fact that makes this beautiful resort property the best investment in California today.

Representatives of the Beach Land Company wearing blue badges, will be on the grounds today to answer the questions of visitors and give all desired information.

in a farce-comedy, make the hit of the production.

The establishment, like others of its class, has a buffet and bar, through which it is necessary to pass in order to reach the restaurant. It is equipped also with one of the swivel storm-doors, moving on a pivot and divided into four compartments that some people find exasperating.

At one of the tables in the buffet sat four young men, all prosperous-looking and all sober, peacefully drinking their beer. Their conversation, however, was sprightly, and none seemed a bit pleased when a tall, middle-aged stranger with a gloomy visage, attempted, as the saying goes, to "but by a remarkably fine collie dog, which fact might have mitigated the coldness of his reception if he had not been so palpably drunk. The four youngsters, politely patient at first, presently became facetitious.

"Now, Whiskers," said the leader of the group. "you'll really have to excuse us. Go and sin no more."
The epithet of "Whiskers" appeared to irritate the stranger. He made the magnificent request that he and his dog be permitted to fight the whole four.
At this facetiousness passed into derision.

"Whiskers," vouchsafed another, "go home, but, for goodness' sake, don't take a whole bath all at once."

The stranger growled again and the dog whined pathetically. At this stage of the proceedings the walters interfered and the interloper was coaxed to the door. As he and the dog disappeared in one of the compartments all four young men howled in concert, "Goodnight, Whiskers."

The exit was not permanent, however, Man and dog instead remained in the compartment until they had made the complete circuit. The stranger's look of amazement on finding himself once more inside the restaurant was comic opera, farce-comedy and tragedy all in one. The quartette laughed hugely, and all bellowed in chorus, "Hello, Whiskers."

statistic construction has been put at statistic construction has been put at statistic construction and should be in the statistic construction to about $240.

Mr. Olmsted recommends the use of large mains for the internal system. The internal system is estimated at $223,141, which can be cut down (by eliminating the ten-inch sewers from municipal construction) to about $240,000, or enough to supply the shortage in the main autfall estimate.

"The plan proposed is in accord with the most advanced thought on the accence of sewage disposal, and if it is ever possible in a practical way, and within practical financial limits to purify the wastes from a population of 500,000 people, by bacterial methods, we shall have accomplished it when this proposed system is installed. The bonds to be voted on the 29th inst. are sufficient to do the work, if transposed as here suggested, and in case the septio treatment should not accomplishall that is hoped, still the city of Los Angeles would have a splendidly-equipped outfall disposal with no objections, from any source, and ample for over 500,000 inhabitants. AT THE COURT HOUSE TEAGER'S GAMBLING PAL AGAINST BOYD.

JOHNSON COOLLY CONFESSES HE IS A THIEP.

Pitiful Anxiety of Alleged Murderer Mother-Rogers Hot After Boyd, the mmovable-Davin Last Man to See

With a sweet little red necktle, where the day before had been a sweet little blue necktle, the cold-blooded young rounder, Johnson, opened the second day of the Boyd murder trial. These two boys, Johnson and Boyd, who are hattling the charge of murder.

who are battling the charge of murder-ing the gambler. Yeager, at Catalina, back and forth between them like a ping-pong ball, are the only ones con-nected with the trial who do not show back and forth between them like a pling-pong ball, are the only ones connected with the trial who do not show the strain of that terrible first day. Boyd's mother had grown years older in a single night. She looked haggard and drawn and white. It is pitiful to see the yearning anxiety with which she watches young Boyd. It seems to hurt her cruelly as they drag out bit by bit the story of the riotous, fast life he was leading.

Mr. Rogers looked wan and tired. He sat fairly squirming in his chalt to get another chance—at Johnson. It was McComas who had called Johnson back to the stand. He wanted to know about the fatal pistol.

Lie asked Johnson when he first saw the revolver in Boyd's possession. Johnson said, "Monday night [the day before the murder,] when he pulled it in a game of poker."

"What did you see him do with it?"

"He pulled it out and knocked it on the table, and said, "This will take care of me."

Rogers grinned and turned to look at Boyd, as much as to say, "Honest, wouldn't that jar you?" And Boyd smiled back.

"Did you see the pistol after that?" Johnson replied that he saw it Monday while he and Boyd were dressing for dinner. Boyd had his coat off and was leaning over a valise. Johnson took the revolver from his pocket, examined it, and put it back again. He noticed that it was loaded.

Rogers was snorting to himself down at the table. "That's a likely story; a likely story; if they didn't let him get at Johnson in a minute he was going to blow up with a crash.

McComas, before he let Johnson go, gently and tenderly helped him out of the bag into which he had slipped the day before.

Rogers had asked him if he didn't get the idea of manufacturing a story about being in "cahoots" with Yeager against Boyd in order to save himself from the suspicion of having murdered Yeager. Rogers wanted to know if he didn't get the idea from the arguments of the lawyers at Catalina.

"Now, as a matter of fact," said McComas, "did you know what they were arguing about?"

DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY.

At last Roge

SELF-CONFESSED THIEF.

"At the same time you were stealing his money?" Rogers was cuttingly politics. Every word must have stung, but Johnson replied as though Rogers asked him what time it was. "Very true sir," he said quietly.

It hurt McComas's feelings more than Johnson's. He went crawling around to the rescue.

"Weil, with regard to stealing Boyd's money, you and Mr. Boyd skinned Mr. Bogé the night before, didn't you?"

Glory be! This brought out the defense like a swarm of bees. "I object to that." stormed Rogers, "and I characterize it as misconduct on the part of the District Attorney."

"We except to the question being asked," put in Lawler.

McComas tried another tack, "You don't mean you picked Boyd's pockets, do you?"

"No, I didn't mean that," said Johnson.

The defense struggled with this witness until he contradicted himself,

PECULIAR WITNESS.

PRIZE PACKAGE.

PRIZE PACKAGE.

The first witness of the afternoon was a prize package; he is Eugene Bogé, alleged to have been the side partner of Yeager, the murdered gambler. Bogé and Yeager used to hang around the big tourist hotels, laying for rich tourists.

Bogé is a quiet, well-dressed young fellow, with a face that is like a maskafellow, with gode that has the corners and are puffy beneath.

Rogers had all kinds of a good time with Bogé. He didn't wait long for a chance, the direct examination being very short.

UNDER HOT FIRE. "I reside here at present," said Bogé,

"I regide here at present," said Bogé, with dignity.

"Where did you come here from?"

"Frisco," said Bogé, as though he were not interested in the topic.

"Where did you come there from?"

"Portland."

"Where before that?"

"Nome, Alaska." Bogé was evidently very much bored.

"Did you know Yeager?" asked Rogers. It must have surprised him when Bogé said he had known him.

"How well?"

"Oh, a chance acquaintance."

"Chance acquaintance" was good.

A broad smile went around the courtroom at this slip.

Rogers grinned.
"Is that all?"

Bogé thought that was about all.
"Do you mean by 'chance' that you

Bogé thought that was about all.
"Do you mean by 'chance' that y were both devotees of the goddess chance?"

Bogé declined to as much as faintly Boge decined to smile. "Brother Rogers, hadn't you better put that in simpler language?" said McComas, with elaborated anxiety. "Oh, I think that is simple enough when you get into the merits of the question," said Rogers, crushingly. Boge said coldly: "I don't understand the gentleman's question." "Yery when you get into the merits of the question," said Rogers, crushingly.

Boge said coldly: "I don't understand the gentleman's question."

Rogers replied mockingly: "Very well: then I will hand it to you in small pieces."

Bogé turned the question aside with cool indifference.

cool indifference.
"What is your business?" said Rogers, more sharply.
"Mining." said the witness, calmiy.
"The sharply with a raising."

"I have owned mines," said Boge; it never feazed him. "You play cards some?" "Yes." "In fact," said Rogers stingingly, "In fact," said Rogers and mining is fact," said Rogers stingingly,

"that is your occupation and mining is your avocation."

Bogé said that it was so. Not an expression of any kind crossed his passionless face.

"That was Yeager's business, too, wasn't it?"

Bogé realty couldn't say.

"Did you ever see him lose at cards?" asked Rogers, in a confidential tone.

"Yes, I've seen him lose."

"As a bluff. I take it."

"I don't know: I've seen him lose." said Bogé, in a colorless voice.

"Were you sober that night?" asked Rogers, referring to the game in which he was "skinned" by Johnson and Boyd.

"I had been drinking some."

"Well." said Rogers, doubtfully. "some is a relative term. Were you intoxicated?"

"Yes, sir," said Bogé, calmly.

"Is your memory then quite clear as

"some is a relative term. Were you intoxicated?"

"Yes, sir." said Roge, calmly.

"Is your memory then quite clear as to the events of the night?"

Bogé admitted that it was not. Rogers looked Bogé in the eye and asked suddenly: "Were you and Mr. Yeager interested together in your-mining (the exquisite irony of that word in Rogers's mouth!) operations? Bogé said they were not. He showed no interest in the question.*

He said that he "found Mr. Yeager a very good card player," but said that he never "played in "with him. He was then excused.

"BARKEEP'S" STORY.

John Davin, the barkeeper of the Metropole, told of the night of the shooting.

He heard the two rapid shots and saw Johnson come out of the room with the revolver in his hand. Then Boyd came out.

As Boyd was leaning against the bar, Davin asked him: "What have you done?"

Boyd came out and said: "They say I have killed a man; I am waiting to give myself up."

The defense struggled with this witness until he contradicted himself.

PECULIAR WITNESS.

There was something peculiar about the next witness. He was a barber named William H. Bollin. He was either deliberately holding back something, or else he was possessed of the stupidity of dumb, driven cattle. He was asked about seeing the fatal revolver in Boyd's possession the afternoon before the ahooting. He said he saw it in Boyd's back pocket.

He was asked about a conversation that occurred at the time. Bollin would not understand.

He would say that the remark was not made to him. Then he would say again that the remark was not made at him. He evidently did not intend to say what Boyd said.

The lawyers couldn't do anything with him, and the court was equally hox. "I want that question answered." "The remark was not made to mu, said Bollin.

"Why day out tell him that?" Bollin said the was standing with a man named Hober, when Foyd came up and asked Hober if he had any money.

Hober said he did it so he could "turn down" Boyd when he asked.

CAN FRANCISCO MISER AND HIS MILLIONS.

HEMIT BY A MYTHICAL HEIR.

Working a Swindling Fake—Easy Victims Found in His Neighbors, Who Willingly Advanced Money.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—There has been merriment in this country for the last few days over what is known as the "Sheffield Millionaire" case. It might be described as a buriesque of the Humbert affair, the circumstances connected with it being uncommonly like those of the famous French swindle, only a good deal funnier. Some account of the case was sent to America when it first came out, but the new developments are even more interesting. The "millionaire" is a Sheffield clerk, by name James Marson, who, like relopments are even more interesting. The "millionaire" is a Sheffield clerk, by name James Marson, who, like Mme. Humbert, managed to get a lot of money out of other people by pretending he had fallen heir to an immense fortune. Evidently Marson was not inspired by the French woman's example, for he began his operations as long ago as wherl Queen Victoria was on the throne.

Marson represented that he was the helr of an immensely wealthy hermit who had lived and died in San Francisco. In some way he managed to get published in a weekly paper a thrilling tale which announced that he, Marson, would soon be the richest man in the world, and which then went on to tell the tale of the mythical hermit and his riches. It was said that after the wealthy recluse died his will was kept back by the man to whom it had been entrusted, and that not until sixteen years afterward did the suspicions of an old servant of the testator lead to a search of the house he had occupied. It proved, so the story ran, to be a most remarkable mansion. Therein the searching party found a trap door leading to a manhole, which, in turn, gave entrance to a room, the shelves of which "groaned beneath the weight of ingots and gold." There was another passage and another door, with a plate upon it stating that intruders were liable to instant death. Through this door the interpid search party passed; and found themselves at the mouth of a gold mine, which eventually proved to be an amasingly rich one. The article declared that young nsn dealer named Joseph Brown, who had read the newspaper story, and who proved an easy victim. He advanced the elerk over $2000. A man named Eastwood was an even better "thing." He guiped down the story of the miser and his millions, and, when he got a letper from the "heir" asking for a loan of $30, could hardly send the money soon enough. He wrote:

"I feel highly favored. I shall be giad to be of any use to you. I inclose $25 in gold. Don't trouble about repayment, and don't fall to ask if more is wanted."

Marson did not fall to profit by the final suggestion. and got between twenty and twenty-five thousand dollars out of Eastwood before the latter grew suspicious. The victim was given to understand that he would be rewarded with an annuity of $15,50,000, as soon as Marson came into his own.

To his dupes, the clerk confided details of the remarkable honors, which he said were on the point of being shown him. He was to be introduced to Queen Victoria, and afterward to the then Prince of Wales. He was to be made "Lord Syerston" and a Knight of the Garter. He made Eastwood believe that he was to dine with the Duke of Norfolk, the premier Duke in the Kingdom, and said that the Home Secretary was coming to make him a visit at the little cottage which he oc-

[Chicago Record-Herald:] Last fall in the Sunday Record-Herald, there appeared an article on purple martins and their habit of nesting in bird-houses. With the article was published the statement of a Georgia man that in his section of the country the martins preferred making their homes in swinging gourds, put up for their convenience, to the setting up of summer establishments in the regulation oird boxes.

The Georgia man suggested that this summer in the North the experiment be tried of hanging up near the bird-houses gourds, with holes cut in them, to see if the northern nesting martins, like their southern brothers and sister the preferred a minimar to preferred.

Swallow for a time were residing within."

There was fear for a while that the multitude of martins would drive away
the swallow couple. They paid but little attention to them, however, except in one instance when a martin fiew down to the gourd, clung to it and looked inquisitively in at the mother swallow, who was covering her eggs. Father Swallow came along and drove the martin away, and there has been no trouble since.

At this writing there are young tree swallows in the gourd neet and literally they are being rocked in a cradie. The old birds are as tame as the chickens which cluck below. W. J.
Mead of Plymouth took a number of photographs of the swallows in different positions. They paid but little attention to the rigging which held the camera, and it does not take a great stretch of the imagination to make one believe that the birds posed rather proudly for the painstaking photographer. ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

were hung in exact accordance with the southern bird lover's directions, the martins would have none of them. One curious thing happened, however, as a result of the gourd experiment. Mrs. Otto Gaffron of Plymouth, Wis., a well-known writer about birds and their habits, hung up some gourds by means of string, which was fastened to sticks nailed to the pole that supported one of the martin houses near her residence. They martins came and had their choice of two kinds of houses in the same block, so to speak. They took the old-time bird house, without as much as taking a peep into the other proffered dwelling. Then it was that the unexpected happened. A pair of tree swallows, those beautiful birds all white underneath and with glossy greenish backs and shoulders, that build in the hollows of dead trees all along the river courses, stopped in Mrs. Gaffron's gourds to prospect for a home. They were attreated to one of the gourds. They explored it thoroughly, and, notwithstanding the fact that every puff of wind started it swinging, they chose it for a residence, and soon had it filled with straw, hay and feathers. The last hit that was added to the home was the long tail feather of a fowl, which stuck out through the aperture of the gourd, and as Mrs. Gaffron suggests. "did duty as a door plate to show that Mr. and Mrs. T. Swallow for a time were residing within."

JUST THINK! Five new electric railways will run through this beautiful tract. If each of the five lines runs a car every 20 minutes, it means a car through the tract every four minutes.

1. One line is now running—the Alhambra line.

2. The Pasadena "Short Line" is now being built—see the track-laying going on. Half a mile more and connection will be made at the Raymond.

3. The Monrovia line is just completely graded—rails now being laid.

4. The Pasadena Villa "Cut Off" Line will be finished immediately following. Then the time to Pasadena will be cut in half.

5. Grade stakes are now being set on the Whittier Line.

The above Five New Electric Railways will give Rapid Transit to the PASADENA VILLA TRACT—Only 15 minutes from business center of Los Angeles, a city of 120,000 population.

PRICE WILL SOON BE ADVANCED.

Dr. Schiffman has extracted the for me by his painless method and replaced them by bridge work which was painless, and I can cheerfully recommend his method to all in man of dental services.

U. F. KETCHUM, 445 S. Spring st.

MRS. M'LAUGHLIN,

It gives me pleasure to state that Dr. Schiffman extracted fourteen teeth for me without the slightest pain; that the gums healed quickly, that the set of flexible teeth he fitted me with gave perfect satisfaction from the first, and after twenty-two months' wear are seemingly just as good as new.

J. W. GASKINE, 1012 Temple st.

I wish to state that Dr. Schiff-man has extracted my teeth for mo-without the slightest pain or un-pleasant after results, and has since fitted me with a full set of teeth, which are just splendid; satis-factory in every way, and I can use them as well as I could my natural ones.

MARY E. BROWN,

About a year ago I had a solid gold bridge put in by Dr. Schiffman. The work was absolutely painless and has proved entirely satisfactory and I cannot say too much in the praise of the doctor.

GUS BASLER, 215 W. 1st. st.

I had two teeth bridged in. It is done as well as any work I ever saw. I must acknowledge that I well pleased.
D. C. DONALDSON,

Dr. Schiffman extracted teeth for me painlessly, which other dentists had failed on, and has since replaced them with gold bridge work which is satisfactory in every way. I cheerfully recommend him to any one needing dental work done,

RACHEL COTTI.

Dr. Schiffman made me an upper and lower set of teeth five years ago. During that time they have been perfectly satisfactory and I feel that they could not be better. I can eat with them as well, if not better as with my natural teeth. MRS. MARY HANSEN.

I can't say too much in praise of Dr. Schiffman, I have had a por-celain bridge put in by the Doctor and it is just perfect in every re-spect. MAUDE ROLLER.

I have worn a plate ever since I was 16 years old. Have had plates made by three different dentists, and must say that the plate made by Dr. Schiffman has been the best I have ever had, and is satisfactory MISS IDA SHEDENHELM,

INTRODUCTORY

Raiston Realty Co.,

525-27 Homer Laughlin Bidg. LOS ANGELES.

MARCELLUS -- Who comes here?" HORATIO- "Friends to this ground."

"Why did you open your real estate offices in Los Angeles?" said an old friend recently arrived.

"Why? replied our senior, rubbing his baid head. "Why?" Well, because this is the most promising groundalike in its commercial and agricultural aspects—to be found today anywhere west of the Rocky Mountains, between Cape Nome and Cape St. Lucas."

The old man—he is not really an old man, it is a pet name we have for him—the old man is right. Those who know the real' estate business thoroughly, who know land scientifically and practically, and who are judges of values, and observers of the current of investment and speculation and improvement, assert confidently that there are now greater probabilities of healthy development and growth, and better chances to make money in Los Angeles City and County than anywhere else on this Coast; and after a prolonged and careful investigation of every field of effort from Puget Sound to Mazatlan, we agree with them, and having the courage of our convictions, here we are.

We propose to transact a commis-

We propose to transact a commission business only. Any person approaching us with a proposition to speculate will be civilly, but firmly put to death and buried before he begins to spoil. If we had made this rule and adhered to it a dozen years ago, we might today have been rich and happy.

We are old veterans in the real estate business, and have had lots caperience. We propose to have no private schemes, and no favorites, and to make a specialty of telling the truth.

we will not commend an "air tight

"He hath courage and judgm: n'— Qualities that eagle-plume men's souls And fit them for the sun."

Sagacity and sand, in proper combinations, will bring wealth and power—for wealth is power—and nowhere will these qualities tell more surely than in real estate investment. You need, first, ragacity; not mere echoing of other people's impressions, nor yet too much conceit of your own. "Take each man's counsel, and preserve thy judgment." Having formed your opinion, act upon it. Don't be afraid of yourself. Get accustomed to trust yourself. Get accustomed to trust yourself. Bet on yourself. Have the courage of your convictions. Call at our offices. We have many choice properties for sale. We are not trading this sesson to any extent in twenty-five foot front lots fifteen miles from the Courthouse, but we have improved business property that will pay 10 per cent, on the investment, and unimproved property that can be improved and made to do as well; and residence property admirably situated, the value of which is as solid as if it were on Fifth Avenue, New York. "Dinna ye hear the slogan?"

Our opinion is that Southern Callfornia will be for the next ten years the best place in the United States to make money, and that nowhere will there be greater activity or greater prosperity than right here in Los Angeles—the Queen City of the Southwest. Here, with our cheap oil fuel, in months so short that they will pass before they can be counted, there will be completion of railways and building of cars, spinning of wool and weaving of carpets; tanof wool and weaving of carpets; tan-ning of hides and fashioning of shoes; pressing of oils and grinding shoes; pressing of oils and grinding of pigments; canning of fruits and curing of meats; smelting of ores and shipments of bullion; clang of hammers and smoke of furnaces. We shall soon see the day when hundreds of tall chimneys will send to the sky their clouds of smoke by day and pillars of fire by night as tokens that here the children of toil and adventure have been marshalled by the giants of capital now operating among us, into a grand army of occupagiants of capital now operating among us, into a grand army of occupation; an army that will conquer poverty; conquer idleness and upbuild upon these southwestern confines of our Republic a mighty city; a city whose toilers will be those citizen-laborers who are the pride citizen-laborers who are the pride and glory of a land; a city whose merchant princes, like those of Tyre and Sidon of old, will be "among the honorable of earth." Our new boom is coming: "Our wagon is hitched to a star." Come and take a ride.

SHAKESPEARE IN INDIA.

Comic Songs and Local Hits Introduced to Please the Cultured Audience

of Bombay.

[New York Mail and Express:] Some day, perhaps, according to the present trend of things theatrical, we shall see Shakespeare's plays as society dramas or musical comedies. If the latter should come to pass New York managers could with profit send a representative to India to acquire expert knowledge, for the Bombay theatergoers are treated to such adaptations of the Bard of Avon's plays as put them in the category with "An Emeraid Isle" or "A Country Girl."

Let us observe one situation in "The Let us observe one situation in "The Merchant of Venice" as presented at the principal native theater in Bombay. It is the elopement of Lorenzo and Jessica. The view is not of the canals and palaces of Venice, but of the harbor of Bombay given with a very good moonlight effect—small craft rocking on the waves beside the great residence of the peninsular and oriental line. A real steam launch approaches; from it steps an officer, clad in the biue uniform of the British navy.

The dialogue is, of course, in Hindoostani, but he curses his crew heartily—in English—then Jessica and her lover hurry aboard the launch and it puffs away. Just as the little vessel clears the wharf. Shylock rushes in. He cries in a frenzy: "My daughter, my ducats! My ducats, my daughter!" and then turns away and breaks into a comic song.

INDISPENSABLE CHORUS. All Indian adaptations of English plays have choruses, says Edmund Rus-All Indian adaptations of English plays have choruses, says Edmund Russell, an American actor and author, who has recently returned from several years' study of the stage in the East. The members of the chorus are all boys, from $ to 12 years of age. These lads, who are as well grown as boys three or four years older in this country, live with the-manager of the theater, who pays them each a triffing sum in addition to their board and clothing. Boys also take all the parts usually played by women, there being but three actresses in Bombay.

These bright little fellows are in evidence frequently in all the plays. In "Hamlet," for instance, the scene opens with a chorus by Ophelia's ladies-inwalting; then the chorus retires from the stage, while Ophelia and the Prince of Denmark are in conversation. At its close, they run to her, and cry in chorus: "What did he say? Ah! what did he say?" The make-up and costuming of these boys so completely change their appearance, of course, that they easily deceive the English eye.

Contest Between the Two Americans for Control of Underground London Takes on a New Phase.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

hadn't anything particular to do, and, desiring amusement—something light and entertaining—it occurred to him to have his fun with underground rapid transit in London, and, Jacidentaily, with his fellow-American, Charles T. Yerkes. So he put forth a little scheme for seventy million dollars' worth of electric railways to run under London close to the Yerkes tubes, already laid out. The joke was to see Yerkes Jump, and it worked so well that Mr. Morgan would have been glad to take two or three days off to watch the fun. The business of annexing the Atlantic Ocean soon distracted his attention, however, so he turned his amusing 370,.000,000 idea over to his lawyers, and apparently forgot all about it.

But Mr. Yerkes, who had , jumped fully as high as was expected, did not forget about it. His raitroads under London were costing something like $30,000,000, and one or two of his lines would be badly damaged by the Morgan. So, he, too, cashered the lawyers, and when the

COMING TO A HEAD NOW.

When Parliament adjourned it had taken ho action on the matter, but when it meets again, a few days hence, it will be plunged at once into the thick of the fight.

For fight it is now, in dead earnest, for the billion of pennies that Londoners are waiting to pay annually to any one who will carry them quickly and comfortably from one side of vast sorawling London to the other, enabling them to say a fond farewell to the lumbering busses that now cat up the time of the most patient city on earth.

A feature of the undertaking will be a fleet of small steamers for distributing flour and corn meal to the smaller coast towns throughout Great Britain. The mill to be erected at Belfast will have an output of 5000 tons weekly.

Ernest MacAndrews of the firm of Isaac MacAndrews & Son, millers, of London and Belfast, when seen on the subject, said: "If Americans want to build mills in Ireland they will be welcome, because it would improve the industrial condition of the country. The prejudice against American flour is being steadily broken down by the home millers. On a sack of four manufactured in Belfast there is at least a dollar distributed in wages, whereas not more than 5 or 6 cents is distributed in this country by the sale of each sack of imported flour."

A HEBREW LORD-MAYOR.

THE NEWLY-ELECTED CITY OF LONDON OFFICIAL

ONDON, Oct. 4.—For anyear after November 9 the city of London will have a Hebrew Lord Mayor. Sir don this week, called attention to the fact in his address to his electors. Re-lerring doubtless to the situation in Roumania, he said, in rather round-thout fashion. "I am not unmindful of the fact that it is not everywhere that members of my persuasion enjoy the same liberty as—thank God—prevails in

Mill Lengths of Percales 81c

Factory Lengths of German Eiderdown 15c Of all the fanoiful, odd and beautiful materials for waists, kimonos, etc., this German elderdown will delight you most. A factory has sent us its short lengths of this season's patterns—just enough of each kind. The colorings are rich reds, blues and light effects; the patterns are quaint, mysterious, fantastic—many no other store will show. You'd as quickly give 20c as 15c; and you'll think the material as pretty as many goods selling at three times the price. Of course, you can't delay.

Nine Big Underwear Values.

Most of the items below are simply lines which are reduced, to be closed out at once, the others mentioned are values that might be called bargains. The prices are so low and the underwear itself is so satisfying.

Children's erray and white ribbed 5 Oc.

Children's gray and white ribbed 5 Oc.

Neat Table Damask 25c.

It is a serviceable, neat damask, full bleached, in a variety of patterns, unlike most low priced table damask. It will give you good service and will wash nicely. Never before had damask at this -price that housekeepers were so delighted with Monday will prebably exhaust our supply of it.

Certainly.

Then you've solved, also, the secret of "Hale's"—the seven big Hale stores.

United, these stores reach into she world's furtherest corners. Their buyers rank first in the great markets. They consume a quantity of goods so vast as to use the output of many mills. See the strength of such a combination! It explains "Hale" prices.

It explains "Hale" variety, so broad, so new. It explains "Hale" quality without "quality" price.

Think of these things as you read the splendid values prepared for this week. Yet half the best news isn't mentioned.

No wonder—is it?—that each small item brings its throng of patrons.
